THIS Santa Fe train slides down through the Cajon Pass to the biggest citron groves and vineyards in the world. Your dining car neighbor assures you that in 10 years Los Angeles will be the biggest city in the world. He is not discouraged by the fact that New York is gaining 200,000 a year.

THE Examiner meets you with a statement that Los Angeles' population is now about 1,300,000, not counting big connecting cities. Population gains 100,000 a year, another city added to Los Angeles every 365 days.

THE biggest cities once on the Mediterranean moved to the Atlantic after Vasco Da Gama's visit to the Zamorin of Calicut had transferred Europe's commerce from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic and ruined Venice.

THE world moves westward and the great cities of the world will be on the Pacific or near its edge in the next century. New York and Chicago must be reconciled to that, although flying machines may take the place of water. Airships make the real ocean the air and every city a seaport.

NEW YORKERS that made up their minds to nominate Mr. Hughes as the man to beat Gov. Smith in New York state now learn from Mr. Hughes that he won't run, and President Coolidge again says that he does not choose, so the nomination is wide open for three men—Hoover, Dawes, Lowden. But if you had a million dollars for each proud American now working to get the nomination away from these three and firmly convinced he will get it you would be the richest man in the world.

LAST August the stock market broke when President Coolidge's first "I do not choose" came out, and on Wednesday last that foolish market broke again because the President said he meant it. What frightens gentle stock brokers and speculators? Do they think Hoover, Lowden or Dawes would declare war on Patagonia, abandon the gold standard, suspend the writ of habeas corpus, close factories, stop the rainfall and destroy crops? Mr. Coolidge is a good President, wisely allowing those that know how to run the country's business to run it. Other good men are ready to do the same. The wise will not choose to sell their stocks because Mr. Coolidge does not choose to run.

AN unfortunate Hindu woman attempting to perform the rite of suttee threw herself on a funeral pyre beside the corpse of her husband and was burned so badly before British police could rescue her that she died. Now 1,500 Hindus fight to get charred fragments of the woman's dress. Hundreds of rupees are paid for a small piece supposed to be sacred.

BRITAIN is sending a commission to India headed by Sir John Simon to see about helping India toward self government. The help should have begun 5,000 years back.

HOW can you give self government to a people in whose literature the word liberty does not appear in 5,000 years, to millions who believe that little girls 8 and 9 years old should be married to middle aged men and that when the old husband dies the young woman should be burned alive with the husband's miserable corpse? That's a long way from self government.

AN intensely interesting suggestion from Gov. Al Smith would take the power of paroling prisoners, sentencing and putting them on probation from judges and transfer it to a board of expert psychiatrists, criminologists and penologists. Such a board might diminish crime instead of merely sending criminals to be made more efficient in the penitentiary crime universities.

ICE CLAIMS IST AUTO DEATH

VARE IS DENIED OATH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—William S. Vare of Pennsylvania was denied the oath of office today by the Senate.

As in the case of Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, the Senate declined to admit the Pennsylvanian to the full privileges of a member because of the expenditures made in his campaign for office.

Instead, his case will be referred to the Reed Campaign Fund Committee, which uncovered the evidence on which both Smith and Vare were accused of campaign financing out of line with public policy.

DENTIST DIES IN CRASH

One man was killed and another seriously injured early today when an automobile in which they were riding skidded on an icy pavement and literally wrapped itself around an iron trolley pole in front of 2357 Brownsville road.

The dead man is Dr. J. C. Shilling, a dentist, 25, of 146 Robinson street, Oakland. He died at 9 o'clock from a fractured skull, in the Southside Hospital.

OTHER DENTIST INJURED

Dr. William Gerst, also a dentist, 25, of 107 Kirk street, Carrick, driver of the car, is seriously injured in the Southside Hospital, suffering from two fractured ribs, lacerations and internal injuries. It is believed he will recover.

The accident occurred within a few blocks of the Gerst home, to which the two were going. Wayne Nestor, of 2357 Brownsville road,

$1,215,000 ORDERED PAID FOUR SENATORS

By JOHN PAGE

(Copyright, 1927, by Washington Herald.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Official Mexican government documents ordering the payment of $1,215,000 to four United States senators are published by The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst papers today.

These original orders, now in the possession of the Hearst papers, bear the handwritten signature of President Calles and his Controller General, Luis Montes de Oca, since promoted to be Secretary of Treasury.

President Calles ordered $1,200,000 to be paid to three of these four senators. His order in turn was transmitted by Senor Montes de Oca on July 15, 1926, to the chief clerk of his department.

There was delay in the transfer of funds, so on August 5, 1926, Calles issued another order, in response to urging from Arturo M. Elias, Mexican Financial Agent in New York. Calles directed that the sum be charged to "secret expenditures for pro-Mexican propaganda."

$1,200,000 Delivered

Senor Elias, according to letters written by him to President Calles and Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, delivered the $1,200,000 on August 14 to a person described by Elias as "intermediary agent" in the affair, "to deliver or place at the disposition of a United States senator," one of the three United States senators named in connection with this proposed payment.

The fourth United States senator was ordered given a smaller sum, $15,000. The order for this proposed payment was issued by President Calles on May 12, 1926, before the anti-American activities of the Mexican Executive had developed, as they were to develop two or three months later. On this date Calles ordered the Mexican Financial Agent in New York, Senor Elias, "to deliver $15,000 to Senator ———, as a gift which the Government of Mexico makes to him for the services he has rendered in favor of the Proletariat of the World." It was ordered delivered through an intermediary agent, not the

Hint Hammer Killer Aided

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 9.—A thin wisp of a blond, blue-eyed and dainty—how can it be possible that she murdered a strong athletic man weighing nearly 200 pounds—a man many times her physical equal.

That is the amazing thought that strikes you full in the face when you see Velma Van Woert West, 21-year-old confessed hammer murderess, who admitted yesterday that she pummelled her husband of a year to death in their little cottage a few miles from here.

Calmly and with a suddeness that amazed officials she told them after a two-hour grilling yseterday:

"I'll tell the truth. I killed T. Edward West myself—with a hammer."

But, despite her testimony, there comes the thought that there must have been someone else there. That it would be almost impossible for the little 90-pound girl to hammer her husband to death, and then tie him hand and foot, and escape through the back door.

Surely, as even the stunned neighbors think, the whole truth has not been told. For Velma's husband was in good health and a mountain of strength. She says that she killed him after a day of nerve-racking quarreling. She told him she was going to the home of Mable Young, Cleveland to play bridge, and stay Tuesday evening. He didn't approve.

Mrs. West says she committed the heinous crime, went out the back door, got in her coupe and drove to her friend's home. From there on her friends pick up the story.

Velma met new people—the girls of the Semper Fidelis club, laughed, sang, joked and was the life of the party. Nothing on her mind but her blond, well-cared for, wavy hair that

Disclosures Today

Official documents from the Mexican government secret archives published by The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers today reveal that:

The sum of $1,215,000 was ordered paid to four United States senators by President Calles.

One of these men was ordered paid $500,000.

Two others were to receive $350,000 each, and a fourth was ordered paid $15,000.

Arturo M. Elias, Mexican financial agent in New York, reported to President Calles that he had delivered $1,200,000 to an intermediary, who was instructed to place the money in the hands of a certain senator.

An actual ledger sheet from the Mexican Treasury Department records the transfer of this $1,200,000 to Elias in New York and names the men purported to be the beneficiaries.

Expect Insanity Plea in Hammer Slaying

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—That insanity would be the plea of Mrs. Velma West, 21, charged with the slaying of her husband, Thomas Edward West, was indicated here today by defense counsel and relatives of the young woman.

Attorney Richard Bostwick, who has been engaged by the girl's parents to defend her, refused to say definitely what the defense would be.

Attorney Bostwick, it is said, has been investigating the history of a reported mastoid ailment with which Mrs. West is said to have suffered for years.

INSURGENTS-G. O. P. IN TRUCE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—A political armistice was arranged today between the Senate Insurgents and administration Republicans on the question of organizing the Senate.

Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, announced he had given complete assurance to the insurgents that they would get the votes they demanded on a farm bill, an anti-injunction measure and a resolution for an investigation of America's policy south of the Rio Grande.

The insurgents then announced they had accepted this assurance and "would assist in organizing the Senate."

Curtis said he "had been in conference with the five Senators and had

Girl Held As Rival's Poisoner

By Universal Service.

PARIS, Tenn., Dec. 9.—Jealousy over the affections of a middle-aged country druggist is held by officers to be the cause of a poison candy plot here as the result of which one woman is dying, four other persons are seriously ill and a young girl is held in jail as the alleged poisoner.

Mrs. Annie Salmon, divorced wife of Grover C. Willoughby, druggist, is dying at a local hospital as the result of eating the poison candy, which was sent her through the mail. She figured in a notorious love tangle several years ago when she was named as co-respondent in a suit for alienation of affections filed by a country minister's wife.

"Tot" Wade, 22-year-old girl, is held as the sender of the poison. The women formerly were employed by the same company, and have had several quarrels over men.

MERCURY'S DIVE HALTS; SOME RELIEF IN VIEW

A slight relief from the cold snap, which since yesterday has held the city in its grasp, was felt today when the mercury, which had been plunging steadily downward with the zero mark as its goal, moved upward with cessation of high winds and the coming of clear skies.

The lowest temperature recorded in the city last night was 7 degrees. While the temperature in the city remains above the five degree mark, lower readings were unofficially reported in the boroughs.

As the temperature dropped yesterday relief organizations of the Salvation Army, Improvement of the Poor and Associated Charities made plans to aid those in want or misery as a result of the frigid weather.

An emergency call for warm clothing was issued last night by Col. Joseph Atkinson of the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army's wagons will be sent for donations of clothing in response to telephone calls to Fisk 6511, Cedar 4142 or McKeesport 2173S.

Hundreds of unemployed were cared for by free-lodging institutions last night, and scores sought shelter in city police stations.

There was little wind today, a fact which will make the first near-zero weather experienced here this season more endurable. Little snow is predicted by the forecaster.

Rescue 4 At East End Fire

Hemmed in by smoke, four women, one an invalid, were carried down ladders by firemen from the third floor of their burning home at 5428 Stanton avenue at 8:30 o'clock. All suffered from exposure before they were housed in the homes of neighbors.

Baffled in her efforts to lead three of her daughters and a nurse to safety, Mrs. Frieda Kline, who discovered the fire in the basement of her home, managed to escape and turn in an alarm from box 186. Smoke filled the house and she was unable to reach the third floor.

Mrs. Kline and Rose Grillo, 16, maid, detected smoke while on the first floor. As they opened the door leading to the basement smoke belched forth and drove them back. Both ran to the second floor, where Mrs. Kline aroused Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rosenberg and their son, Julius, 19. The maid ran to the third floor and aroused the four sleeping occupants, then made her way downstairs and with Mrs. Kline fled to the porch.

Members of the Rosenberg family groped their way through the smoke filled halls and reached the first floor in safety.

The four girls, Rose Kline, 18, an invalid for a year; Miss Florence Breen, nurse, and Misses Florence and Etta Kline, 22 and 25, respectively, were only partly dressed when firemen arrived, and placing ladders to the windows of their rooms carried them down.

The fire started from an overheated furnace and burned through the partitions of the house. It had made considerable headway when discovered and firemen battled more than an hour before it was extinguished.

Battalion Fire Chief Fred S. Beckett placed the loss at $8,000. The occupants said the loss would be $10,000.

GOV. SMITH PROMISES HEARING

By ARTHUR WINTON,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 9.—A simple appeal for the life of Ruth Snyder was made to Gov. Smith in the executive mansion yesterday by her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown.

The visit of the aged woman, dressed in black, was a surprise. She was alone.

"I am pleading with you only for Lorraine," she said. "Not for my daughter, nor for myself. Please! Oh Please! Show mercy for the child's sake!"

Governor Smith was kindly. He told the mother he had not acquainted himself with her daughter's case in detail but that she would be given every opportunity to present her appeal.

"I feel for you with all my heart, Mrs. Brown," he said, "but we must all remember that there are many other daughters, sons, fathers and mothers in prison. All cannot be released."

When Mrs. Brown walked out, after 10 minutes with the executive, she seemed heartened.

Governor Smith told her that a public hearing will be held as soon as the legislature convenes and that Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray will be given every possible consideration.

"Your daughter will have every opportunity to plead her case in this public hearing," the governor added.

PICK SITE IN 30 DAYS

Mr. Braun told Council that the sites suggested by 150 persons in Pittsburgh and Allegheny would be inspected and the "airport selected within 30 days."

The committee informed Council that the definite cost of the airport could not be determined until the site and had been selected. The $2,000,000 figure was placed as the minimum cost.

Council was asked to provide in its budget a councilmanic bond issue of $1,000,000 to provide its share. The county, it was stated, would be asked to provide a similar amount.

Councilman P. J. McArdle inquired if the county should not be asked to provide a larger portion of the money inasmuch as the airport will be used for the development of the industry and service for the entire county. It was then agreed that Mr. Braun's committee will confer with County Commissioners, secure their approval and arrange for a joint conference with a councilmanic committee and Mr. Braun's committee to determine the proportion the city and county will pay.

"The airport is assured," Mr. Braun said after the meeting, in complimenting the vision of Council members.

ANKER'S KIN VANISHES

Another Pittsburgh man has joined the city's growing list of missing men, it was revealed last night, when Lloyd W. Smith, president of the Union National Bank, appealed to police to search for his brother, Homer D. Smith of 1549 Denniston avenue, who disappeared 10 days ago. Friends and members of the missing man's family are at a loss to explain his absence.

Police are still probing the disappearance of George Vogel, North Side chain store proprietor, who vanished after he had notified his brother that he had been threatened. John Fitzpatrick, a Pitt graduate, who wrote to his wife from Toronto, Can., that he would commit suicide by leaping into the Niagara River, has not been found.

The latest disappearance has been brought to the attention of Chicago and New York police. Smith left his home November 27, to go to Chicago and New York on business. Two days later he wrote to his wife, from the Drake Hotel in Chicago, and told her that he planned to leave Chicago that evening for New York, where he would remain one day.

Crazy, Says Witness of Remus

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Two character witnesses from Chicago, where he deserted a promising legal practice to come here and engage in bootlegging, testified for George Remus in his murder trial today and brought the end of the defense's verbal testimony.

Michael Igoe, South Park commissioner, and Joseph La Buy, former Municipal Court judge, were the Chicagoans who said Remus' reputation for peace and quiet and citizenship was good.

Mr. La Buy testified, however, that observations of Remus after his release from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., September 2, 1925, had convinced him the defendant was insane prior to the time he shot and killed Mrs. Remus in Eden Park here October 6, last.

Bare Vote Marking Fraud

Double markings in the election in the Third ward, Fifth precinct, gave a peculiar twist to returns from that precinct in the county commissioner fight, the Bonsall recount board revealed in its report to the judges of Common Pleas Court today.

The district has a registration of 515 and of this number 413 were shown to have voted.

The board reported that all but 22 of the ballots in the box contained a cross in the straight Republican square and all of these except two contained different markings, either for Shields and Armstrong or Shields and Babcock. These double markings may possible have been made by three or four persons, although the board segregated 113 ballots appearing to have been marked by the same hand, 95 for Babcock and Shields and 18 for Armstrong and Babcock.

HINT BRIBE TO JUROR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—An intimation that a bribe may have been offered to Edward J. Kidwell, a juror in the Fall-Sinclair oil case, was given out today at the district attorney's office co-incident with a conference there in which Kidwell was said by the district attorney to have furnished evidence of the "greatest importance."

Kidwell's appearance at the district attorney's office today, coming on top of the testimony in the contempt case yesterday, provided a new sensation in the oil investigation.

The government in the contempt proceedings charged that one of the purposes of Sinclair in having Henry Mason Day and Sheldon Clark, his associates, employ detectives to shadow the jury was "to bribe" them. It was further charged that it was the purpose of the wealthy oil man to bring about a mistrial in the case if it was believed necessary to aid the defendants.

No direct evidence tending to show that any Burns detective had approached or sought to approach any juror was brought out until yesterday.

Winter Gas Shortage Unlikely

No matter how low temperatures fall in the Pittsburgh district this winter, there will be plenty of gas, Equitable Gas Company officials announce.

The supply is so plentiful that the explosion of the big North Side tank a few weeks ago, where 7,000,000 cubic feet of gas were held in reserve, will not affect the consumer supply.

So many good wells have been struck in West Virginia and other sections from which the company obtains its supply, that it will not be necessary this winter, the first in a long time, to mix manufactured gas with the natural article, it was stated.

the country would think if the Democrats voted to put Vare out and thus obtain a majority of the Senate, 47 Democrats to 46 Republicans.

Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, called attention that there was a non-partisan vote on Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, with a considerable number of Republicans voting to deny the oath and a considerable number of Democrats voting to give it.

Harking back to the Nye case, where there was opposition to Nye, of North Dakota, taking the oath pending a determination of the authority of the governor to appoint him, Neely said that all of the Republicans now proposing in speeches that Vare be seated, had voted to "close the door in Nye's face."

"Now, the plain fact is that those senators opposed Nye because he would not vote regular," Neely said, "and they all know how Vare will vote."

BEFORE SHE CONFESSED

Annie Dyza, 14, after denying since Tuesday that she had shot her sister, Helen, 6, yesterday broke down and confessed. This photograph taken just before her confession, shows, left to right, Mary, 11, Stanley, 9, Annie, Sophia, 7, and Alex, 4, brothers and sisters of the dead child. An old revolver found in the attic, Annie said, was accidentally discharged, killing her sister.

WHERE TRAGEDY-TORN FAMILY LIVES

Home of the Dyza family, in Robert's Hollow, Forward township, which presented a sad appearance yesterday. The outbuilding at the left ofthe picture is where the shooting took place. Helen's parents at first believed the story of her sister, that she had fallen down the stairway. An investigation, however, revealed a bullet wound traversing from one shoulder to the opposite thigh.

BIRTHDAY PHOTOGRAPH

Mrs. Victoria Dyza, mother of the slain child, holding Helen, who succumbed yesterday in the McKeesport Hospital to a 38 caliber bullet fired by her sister last Tuesday. Ksawery Dyza, father of Helen. The photograph was taken one year ago, on little Helen's fifth birthday.

40 Years Given Burglar Captured After Gun Duel

Twenty to 40 years at hard labor in the Western Penitentiary was the sentence received by "Billy" Morris when he pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge James R. Macfarlane to nine charges of burglary in the Schenley Farms district.

Morris is wanted in at least 10 other cities, including Cleveland, where 37 "jobs" are held against him. Morris on November 9 fought a duel with Patrolman Edward Reynolds when the latter detected him leaving a Bigelow boulevard home. Morris was brought down with a shot in the leg, but five bullets he fired at the patrolman went wild.

LEGION TO TAKE DRY POLL

COLD SNAP TO BREAK IN WEST

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—A letup in the record December cold wave which during the last 36 hours has paralyzed Chicago and the Middle West with its zero grasp, was promised for today by the local weather bureau. Slight moderation should begin today, with a further rise tomorrow, according to the forecast.

Eight deaths in Chicago and a score more in other sections of the affected area were caused directly or indirectly by the severe cold. The frigid wave caused more suffering than usual because it caught so many people unprepared and followed quickly on weather that had been mild and spring-like.

Humans were not the only sufferers. Cattle and livestock over the middle west were trapped by the suddenness of the blizzard, which rode in with mountainous banks of snow and sent temperatures down to zero and in some sections 10 and 20 degrees below.

Farmers will suffer heavy losses in livestock and considerable damage to property from the tornado-like winds. The wind reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour in Chicago and caused much damage to suburban property.

Cities in Indiana reported plate glass windows broken by the force of the gale.

Today the frigid blast, which swept in from the Canadian Northwest, had spread faulike to all sections of the United States. The cold wave reached its climax here early today and was traveling mainly eastward.

The lowest official temperature in Chicago was 2 degrees above zero. In many outlying sections of the city temperatures as low as 5 below were recorded.

Suffering was intense in all sections in the path of the cold wave. Deaths were reported from North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and eastward in Indiana, Ohio and New York.

The fierce gales that preceded the cold wave are now causing damage and loss of life through the East, having passed this section 24 hours ago.

Many of those who lost their lives were the victims of traffic accidents caused by the blinding snow-laden gales on icy streets. Damage from fires, caused by overheated stoves, will be heavy in the metropolitan centers visited by the cold wave.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL :-: AND BEACH :-: DECLARED GUILTY

CHARACTER STUDIES OF MRS. LILLIENDAHL AS TRIAL PROGRESSED

WILLIS BEACH

Beach and Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, wife of Dr. William Lilliendahl, were found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the killing of the aged New Jersey narcotic specialist. The prosecution pointed its evidence toward showing friendly relations existing between Beach and Mrs. Lilliendahl prior to the killing. The jury returned its verdict late yesterday, after deliberating nearly 24 hours.

Companionate Union Not New

Test Wife's Right to Beat Home Invader

By Universal Service.

LA CROSSE, Wis., Dec. 9.—How far Mrs. Mafel Boughton, 24, was justified in stripping and beating a woman she surprised with her husband in her own home will be threshed out by the courts here, it was learned today.

Laviolet Ledegar, divorcee, beaten and bruised, has started an assault action against Mrs. Boughton. Mrs. Boughton has taken out warrants against her husband, Carl Boughton, and Miss Ledegar, following a midnight foray, Tuesday. In the foray Mrs. Boughton, backed by her father, brother and a cousin, broke into the Boughton flat and found Boughton and Miss Ledegar together, she says.

Miss Ledegar, hiding in a closet, was dragged out by the hair, while Boughton was pulled out from beneath a bed by his wife's father and brother. Then Mrs. Boughton stripped the clothing from her rival, beat her, and called in the police.

FOUR JAPANESE FLIERS KILLED

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Four Japanese aviators were killed last night when two planes collided while flying over Omura airdrome. One machine burst into flames. The pilot and observer in each plane were killed.

CHINESE PRINCESS PRAISES FLAPPERISM

The Chinese, declared Princess Der Ling, upon her arrival in America from Peking, have long practiced the "companionate marriage," which just now is stirring this country so greatly. The princess is the wife of Thaddeus White, British broker in the Orient and is royalty of an ancient and revered dynasty. Flapperism, she said, has hit China and is having a "broadening, uplifting" effect on the new generation. She is shown on the deck of her steamer with her son, Thaddeus, Jr.

WANT WILL OF VOTERS TO RULE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A poll on the prohibition question will be conducted by the American Legion and members of the American Legion auxiliary on May 15. This was announced last night by Edward E. Spafford, national commander, at the annual New York state dinner at Hotel Pennsylvania. The Legion represents a cross-section of the country, he said, and is neither wet nor dry.

Commander Spafford said in part:

"No government can long exist which does not enforce its laws, or which resorts to a breach of the fundamental principles of liberty in order to enforce some law which has not the sanction of the best thought of the community.

"It is upon the people that this law acts, and not upon the states. Inasmuch as this law concerns individuals, it should have unqualified consent of the governed, namely the people, and that consent should be expressed in no unqualified way.

"We fought for the government of the United States, and are willing to fight for it again, and we feel that the expression of the will of the people should be called for, and when given, should be acted upon.

FRISCO BIDS FOR CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—An effort to bring the 1928 Democratic National Convention to San Francisco was begun today after the San Francisco Tourist and Convention League had telegraphed to John Shea, its representative in Washington, to start canvassing committeemen of that party for their opinions on the matter.

City Supervisor Warren Shannon, who also is in the national capital, probably will be asked by Mayor James Rolph to act with other representatives of San Francisco in the new convention campaign. The Democratic National Committee will meet in Washington sometime next month to decide on a convention city.

INSANE WHEN TOGETHER

Ruth's Final Plea

IN FIGHT FOR HER LIFE

IN THE SHADOW

Due to die in the New York electric chair for the slaying of her husband, Ruth Snyder bases her last hope on a proposed examination to prove her "insane when with Judd Gray," the lover who is to die with her for participation in the killing. "Folie a deux" the alienists, who will testify for her, say.

WEEPS IN CELL

Pinning her faith on Dr. C. J. Neymann, Chicago alienist, Ruth weeps continually in her cell.

WERE THEY?

Through Dr. Neymann, Ruth hopes to prove she was insane at the time she conspired with Gray to kill her husband as he lay sleeping.

IT SAVED LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Dr. Neymann, found "folie a deux" when he examined Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, slayers of "Bobbie" Frank. He declared them insane together, sane when apart. This finding materially aided their escape from the chair.

FOR LOVE

For love, Ruth and Judd are facing the chair. Their last slim hope centers around an appeal to the Supreme Court and proof of "folie a deux."

NIP EXECUTION OF INNOCENTS

By Universal Service.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—Mistaken for the sons of Gen. Ferrara, chief of military operations in the state of Jalisco, Roberto Jorge and Wanten Weiler were kidnaped and almost executed by revolutionists at the Hacienda Santa Eduviges yesterday, according to a message received by the War Department from Guadalajara.

The boys, who closely resemble the General's sons, were standing against a stone wall when a Federal cavalry broke up the execution party and dispersed the rebels. Several rebels were killed, the message said.

NAB PITT'S BET-RUN BOOKIE

C. J. Schinninger, of Altoona, whom, local detectives say, is the New York betting commissioner who cleaned up on the Pitt-Penn State football game here Thanksgiving Day, booking bets against Pitt, will face the betting fraternity boys Monday in Central Police Court, where he is to be arraigned on a charge of larceny. Boasting of his cleanup here to his friends in Altoona resulted in his arrrest there, detectives say.

College students and Oakland business men are said to have placed bets totaling more than $5,000 with Schinninger, who registered at a Pittsburgh hotel as "C. E. Hugus, a New York betting commissioner." After the game the students went to collect their bets and found that the "commissioner" had left the city—with their money.

FIND WALTERS GUILTY

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9.—Reginald E. Walters, prohibition informer, was found guilty early this morning of first degree murder in the death of Hunter R. Stotler, his superior officer, last July. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

Stotler was slain on a lonely road near Boonsboro, and Walters' tale of an ambush by mountaineers sent posses scouring through the underbrush. Later he changed his story, and said he had killed Stotler for intimacy with Mrs. Walters, under a gruelling by dry officers of the Pittsburgh headquarters.

The slayer offered self-defense as an excuse for the crime, claiming he shot when he thought Stotler made a motion to draw a gun. They had been discussing Stotler's alleged relations with Mrs. Walters at the time, he testified.

SHOOTS SLEUTH IN RUM CHASE

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 9.—D. C. Smith, 40, of New Castle, special investigator for the district attorney's office, is in the hospital here today recovering from a bullet wound in the left hip.

Smith was accidentally shot by Constable Frank B. Kidd during the capture of H. Zeszhia, of Ambridge, alleged booze runner. According to Kidd, he was chasing Zeszhia in the darkness when he stumbled down a bank, discharging his revolver. Officers say the arrested man had 35 gallons of liquor in his machine.

DEER, SHOT, SWIMS RIVER, IS KILLED AFTER CHASE

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—A party of Confluence hunters had an unusual experience before they bagged a big deer. They fired at a buck in Horseshoe Bottom and the deer, badly wounded, plunged into the Youghiogheny river, swimming to the opposite shore. The hunters waded the icy stream to reach the deer and killed it by cutting its throat.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Five thousand children of this city will receive a box of candy and a package of fruit as the annual Christmas treat by the New Castle works of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Kresge Gives Anti-Wet League $500,000

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Amid a scene of wild enthusiasm, S. S. Kresge, millionaire department and five-and-ten-cent store magnate, of Detroit, last night announced a contribution of $500,000 to the newly created education council of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

The announcement came with dramatic suddenness in the midst of a speech by E. H. Cherrington, new league leader, at the annual banquet here.

Kresge's big contribution was immediately followed by one for $50,000 from William S. Cochrane, of Baltimore, and a moment later an anonymous donor contributed $50,000 through Dr. Howard H. Russell, founder of the league.

F. M. Jackson of Birmingham, Ala., gave $5,000 and another anonymous donor gave a like amount.

Kresge's donation to the war chest came with dramatic suddenness. Cherrington was outlining his policies and had remarked that he could use $10,000,000 the first year to carry out the work.

Kresge jumped to his feet.

"I gave of my time and money to make prohibition possible," he declared, adding:

"I was attacked for it; people told me it was none of my business when all I was doing was trying to help my fellow men. But I replied it was my business, for I believe in prohibition." Then he shouted:

"I will give one-half million dollars to your cause, Mr. Cherrington, and I will get other men to give as I have given."

Another man, who refused to give his name, arose and gave $5,000. Jackson then arose and gave an equal amount.

By this time $420,000 had rolled into the league's coffers.

The applause and cheering were so vociferous that Cherrington was never able to resume his speech.

League leaders said that the $10,000,000 mentioned by Cherrington was in no way a budget for the work of the new bureau. It was explained, however, that they possibly would attempt to raise that amount for a five-year program.

CHILDREN FLEE SCHOOL THREATENED BY FIRE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9.—Seventy-five school children walked calmly to safety when flames from a defective flue broke out in a portable school building at St. Michael.

ASKS RIGHT TO TAKE OFFICE

Pending arguments before the Supreme Court regarding the election of school director of the Second District of Hampton township, a petition was filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday, in which the court is asked to grant permission for H. Russell Anderson, named as the winner in the recount, to serve on the board.

The petition asks that the supersedas recently asked for in the case be vacated. The reason is that the school budget must be made up and the board now constitutes an equal number.

FIRE CO. TRUCK HITS FENCE

While answering an alarm last night the ladder truck of Engine Company No. 9, driven by William Jones, crashed into the fence of the Allegheny Cemetery, Butler street.

Jones said an automobile pulled into the path of his truck and forced him to swerve the machine to the sidewalk. The truck was slightly damaged.

The company was answering a still alarm at 151 Thirty-sixth street. There was no damage.

FIRES HOME THAWING FROZEN WATER PIPE

A frozen water pipe this morning was responsible for a fire which drove the family of Charles W. Sullivan from their home, 7717 Mulford street, at 7:30 o'clock. Sullivan in attempting to thaw the pipe set fire to the kitchen. Damage amounted to $500.

BANK NOT CONNECTED WITH AMER. STEEL CO.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—Through error the First National Bank of Pittsburgh was named as the owner of the Waynesburg plant of the American Steel Company of Pittsburgh, which is to be sold at public auction here December 20. This bank has no connection with the property.

Gift Sweaters for Junior and Senior Girls

Sweaters satisfy her style sense with their modern lines and harmony of colors—and some with their "Imported" label!

There are slip-ons and coat styles—with or without collars....cuff or straight blouse....round, V, or square necks. Many different weights....from the sheer, almost transparent, silk and wool to the heavy, outdoor woolens. Many of these latter come in matching sets of hat and sweater.

Colors in profusion—one to please each "teen-age" girl. Sizes 6 to 14. Priced from $2.95 to $22.50.

Frocks for Junior Girls

Printed ones are fresh and clean—clear-cut stripes, dots, and flowers varied by solid colored voile. Touches of embroidery, and crisp collars and cuffs add to their charm. With bloomers, except in sheer styles. $2.95.

Also imported Belgian dresses of crepe de chine—dainty pastel shades, with inimitably delicate embroidery. Six different models. Priced $10.75.

Suits and Overcoats of Satisfying Quality at a Gratifying Price

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES

The largest direct from factory sales and production in the clothing industry—huge cash buying power to command price concessions on woolens—workers whose stock ownership in the company safeguards quality and promotes efficiency—without these unparalleled advantages it would be impossible to sell suits, overcoats and tuxedo suits of this quality at a price so low.

All $22.50

Day after day, men who never before thought of paying less than $50 for clothes are buying these suits and overcoats on the recommendation of friends—wearing them with more than ordinary satisfaction—and, in turn, recommending them to others. That's one of the reasons for our constantly growing sales. In fact, Richman's Clothes sell themselves to any man who is interested in getting the most for his money—to put on a Richman suit or overcoat is the most convincing evidence a man can ask that he sacrifices nothing in style or quality when he takes advantage of the substantial saving in the Richman price.

FOUR RESCUED FROM FIRE

Fire, starting from an overheated furnace in the cellar of the home of Mrs. Freda Kline, 5428 Stanton street, this morning, forced the occupants into the biting cold. Four persons, including three of Mrs. Kline's daughters, one of them an invalid were rescued from the smoke-filled rooms and carried down ladders by firemen. Damage was estimated at $8,000.

REFUSE TO HALT AUDIT QUIZ

The Supreme Court, sitting in Philadelphia, refused a petition for a supersedeas in behalf of Joseph R. Gaussa, road superintendent, who sought to prevent Controller C. C. McGovern from examining his account with the Potter Title and Trust Company. The appeal in the case, which Gaussa lost in the lower courts, will be argued later.

McGovern's probe of county fiscal affairs will be resumed Monday, it was announced today, following refusal of the Supreme Court to tie his hands in examining private bank books of county employes.

"Just a Tiny Toy Will Give a World of Joy"

More than 100,000 gifts of toys, books or dolls must be provided in the Toy Mission this year to save children in poorer families from disappointment on Christmas Day. An increase of more than 25 per cent in requests for presents has been made upon the mission. The Sun-Tele Auxiliary is urging all donors to send their gifts early.

"The demands upon us are greater than ever before," said Manager George L. Bond. "In our requests from the schools, lists of poor families in 16 districts are added to the quota this year. From all sources these run into the thousands and we are making every effort to meet the situation. It is our determination that no child shall be disappointed."

All the Sun-Tele agencies in the city and suburbs are open for the reception of gifts and every street car conductor employed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company will accept packages intended for the mission. Meantime donations of cash are flowing in, but despite this generous response of the people, there are not enough gifts in sight to fill half the little stockings that are waiting. Send gifts to any of the agencies listed below:

BLOND KILLER BELIEVED AIDED

had been the pride of the man who loved her—Eddie West.

She had beginners' luck at bridge. She was a novice. But her hands were miraculously lucky. It pleased her. She kidded about it. Then suddenly jumping up, she ran to the piano, threw back her blond head, and began to play. Her dainty hands—was the warm blood of her husband upon them?—swung into:

"I knew I'd miss your smile—and miss your kisses for a while. But never knew that I'd be—oh so blue!"

There was an intriguing little catch in her voice. How sympathetically she sang it! When Velma ended, the girls clapped their hands and begged her to go on. It was a nice evening—and the little blond was the life of the party.

That night she slept in the house of her chum, and in the morning went Christmas shopping with her mother, Mrs. V. L. Van Woert. There was nothing in her manner to show that she was in the least perturbed.

She bought presents for her friends and relatives as though she were looking forward to this Christmas being the happiest and gayest of her 21 years. And even while she was mingling in the holiday crowds, the little town of Perry, nearest the West home, and the larger town of Painesville, was wild with excitement. Police were searching for Velma West to see if she could enlighten them as to the mysterious murder of her handsome and socially prominent husband.

The Wests are of the famous nursery family. Velma, so the puritanical and stunned neighbors say, was not of as blue blood as he. There was considerable comment at the time of the "runaway" marriage of the blonde and the well known Eddie West.

But, according to these same neighbors, the worst they knew of Velma Van Woert when she stepped into their small circle was that she "actually was seen smoking cigarets." It is said they gave her, quite openly, the cold shoulder.

Tradesmen will tell you:

"She was a funny one—that one. Never would talk to us much. Closed up like a clam. She just didn't mix with our people—not our kind."

The honeymoon cottage of the Wests, a small white cottage with rose trellises and a homey look, was buffeted yesterday by a blizzard. The winds howled about it and the snow swirled and eddied, giving it the appearance of a bleak wind-swept prairie.

The blinds were pulled down and there was nothing to suggest that a year ago there reigned young love and happiness. Neighbors drove up, gazed curiously—then drove away hurriedly as if they half expected the ghost of Tommy West to appear at the window of the upstairs room, where he met his sudden and gruesome death.

Velma West's day was a horror filled and busy one. But she herself was a study. At 1:30 when she left the Painesville jail for her arraignment she came from her cell looking quite calm and snappy in her gray squirrel coat, white hose and patent leather pumps. She wore no hat, and the wind blew her blond hair about becomingly.

In the City Hall, where the arraignment took place and a charge of first degree murder was lodged against her, for the first 10 minutes she sat staring into space as though she might be meditating upon what to buy for Christmas or a new hat.

Then suddenly she seemed to be aware of cameras clicking around her, and by the exploding flash lights and the score of newspapermen and women making notes. Pulling her handkerchief from her sleeve, she began to cry—mildly at first, then wildly.

And a few moments later, when there was little doubt she thought no one saw her, she collapsed going down the steps of City Hall, and was carried bodily to the Court House. Her nerve had broken.

However, half an hour later Velma went into the sheriff's office from her cell, and underwent an hour's session with her lawyers.

What went on behind those closed doors was not divulged. But she came out, eyes red and with face covered, and staggered back to her cell.

It must have been a revealing interview, for her attorney afterward remarked:

"I am elated with what I have learned."

Meanwhile another mystery entered the case and the curiosity of the newspaper correspondents was raised to white heat when one of the men strolled near the closet where the murder hammer was kept. An officer stepped up, and furiously warned:

"Don't go near that closet. There is something there I don't want you to see. I'll throw the first man out who goes near there."

Was it something concerning this murder case? Something that might make us feel a little more uncertain that, unaided, in a moment of fury little Velma West killed her good-looking husband.

Perhaps it was. All murder is a mystery—but this one, despite the lengthy confession of the beautiful blonde wife is a little more mysterious than the average. For nearly everyone believes that there is a bigger and more dramatic story behind the scenes of the West tragedy. Is the solution in the mystery closet in the Lake County Jail?

CITE N. Y. PRAISE OF VOTING MACHINES

Plans to familiarize the people of the Pittsburgh district with voting machines and their advantages were discussed informally at the meeting of the Allegheny County Branch of the Pennsylvania Elections Association late yesterday. The association is strongly urging adoption next November of the voting machine amendment to the State Constitution, and is arranging to have the devices demonstrated in all sections of the state.

Thomas J. Walker, secretary of the association, is distributing reprints of editorial comment in the New York City newspapers on the use of voting machines there last month. There were 1,867 machines in use in the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn at the November election. In many districts they were used for the first time.

The New York American's comment the morning after the election was as follows:

"Voting by machinery is easy and quick once you get the knack.

"It also is amazingly convenient when the polls are closed, for the count is automatic.

"When voting machines are used in all election districts there will be no need of long waits to learn the returns.

"Within an hour, at the latest, enough districts should report to give reliable percentages and forecasts.

"Then 'home and to bed.'"

Accompanying the reprints of the editorials is the following statement from Mr. Walker:

"As you know, the Pennsylvania Elections Association has three principal purposes:

"1. Creation of a public sentiment which will secure from the next State Legislature a substantial improvement in the election laws.

"2. Assistance in the enforcement of these laws by carrying on elsewhere in the state the kind of aggressive program which distinguishes the Committee of Seventy in Philadelphia.

"3. Conduct of a campaign to assure the adoption of the voting machine amendment at the general election next year."

A. Marshall Thompson of Pittsburgh is one of the vice presidents of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, and Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence is a member of the executive committee. The board of directors has several members from Pittsburgh and the vicinity—Ralph S. Boots, Grant Curry and Francis S. Guthrie of Allegheny county, Gertrude McKinney of Butler county, and D. Glenn Moore and John L. Stewart of Washington county.

The officers of the Allegheny County Branch of the Pennsylvania Elections Association are: President, Grant Curry; vice-president, Mary Flinn Lawrence; secretary-treasurer, Francis S. Guthrie, and counsel, Simon T. Patterson.

A question that has been asked in the course of the present discussion of voting machines is if it is possible with the use of the device to vote for a person that has not been nominated by one of the political parties. The answer is that provision is made in the machine for writing in the name of an unnominated person for whom the citizen desires to vote.

SEEK SWINDLING PSYCHOLOGIST

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Erie police are searching for a man said to be Prof. J. B. Mann, psychologist, who had offices at 804 Peach street, and who is said to have swindled Mrs. J. L. Pittenger, widow, out of $3,500, her life's savings.

Mrs. Pittenger told police she was victimized through spiritual readings "Professor" Mann conducted at his office. She asserted the professor promised she would get considerable money due her after she had withdrawn her savings from the bank.

Lieut. Christoph said it was apparent she had been swindled by switching a bag containing a package of cut newspapers with one containing the $3,500.

FOUR CITIES BATTLE FIRE IN EAST CHICAGO

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Dec. 9.—Fire departments of Gary, Indiana Harbor, Hammond and East Chicago yesterday fought a $400,000 fire, which destroyed three mercantile buildings here. They checked the flames only after six hours of desperate fighting against cold and flames.

Cold? Think of Needy As Zero Comes

The Christmas fund which the Sun-Telegraph is collecting for the Twenty Neediest Cases of poverty that the charitable societies have found in Pittsburgh was swelled yesterday by several notable contributions. One donor gave $200—$10 for each case. Then there were some other gifts that were interesting because they represented collections taken in a high school and a college.

The cold wave, accentuating the miseries of destitution in winter, when money is lacking to buy coal or pay gas bills, should stimulate kind-hearted Pittsburghers to give generously to the fund. The need is great; money is needed to tide these 20 families through a siege of sickness and disaster from which none of them is likely to recover in less than a month or two. It is not merely a Christmas dinner and playthings for the children that are sought for them; the fund is to be employed to supply the necessaries of life until the unfortunate families can get on their feet and be self-supporting again.

To illustrate what can be done with such a fund to relieve distress there is given here a letter received by the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor from a needy case that was assisted last year. The writer says:

"You were so kind to us when we were in need I thought it would be nice for me to write to you and let you know that we are getting along well. My husband, as you know, is a helper on a truck for one of the department stores, and we are not in need of any further help.

"The groceries, clothes and other things you gave us kept us alive. You helped us just at the time it looked as though there was nothing for us to do but separate the family and go to the poor house. We are on our feet again, and we are very happy. It hope you have a merry Christmas."

Here is a letter that the Sun-Telegraph received yesterday from John H. Coyne:

"I am enclosing herewith a money order for $10, which was collected by two ninth grade English classes of the George Westinghouse High School to help you in your work of aiding some of Pittsburgh's poor families. These classes wish this money to be applied to the cases in general. Helen Biehl and Homer Wadsworth acted as secretaries of the two classes and helped with the collection of the money and kept the records. These classes also send their best wishes for the success of your undertaking."

And here is one signed by Margaret I. Smith, treasurer:

"At the regular meeting of Phi Theta Phi, girl's social fraternity in the Evening Division of the University of Pittsburgh, it was decided to send the enclosed check for $20 to the Twenty Neediest Cases Fund. This check goes forward with best wishes of the fraternity for a lage fund before Christmas."

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to the Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 12:

This fast growing family has been having a hard time finding sufficient to keep themselves in health and strength. The father is a carpenter but has been ill for some time and as a result the five young children have gone many times without sufficient food. The mother is considerably handicapped because the children are all so small. It has been necessary not only to try and see that they have enough food but also to plan to improve the health of the family.

(Reported by the Salvation Army.)

Case No 13 will be described tomorrow.

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations:

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue.

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

DRUG PEDDLERS GET STIFF TERMS

Five drug peddlers were given heavy sentences yesterday by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, one upon conviction, and the others on pleas of guilty of violating the Harrison narcotic act. William T. Duffy and other government narcotic agents testified against them.

Lewis Yonkers, proprietor of the De Luxe Negro Club, Bedford street, Johnstown, who sold morphine to a government informer, was sentenced 18 months to the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. Jack Redmond, alias "Spots Olney," former pugilist, bartender for Yonkers, pleaded guilty, and was placed under a three-year parole.

Joseph Wozniak, alias "Ice Water Joe," was sentenced 18 months to the penitentiary, and Howard Connelly, a co-defendant, also of the South Side, was sentenced to serve one year in jail. Milton Bankerd, 2919 Atmore street, received a three-year penitentiary sentence, for having made nine sales of morphine to a government informer. He had been sentenced one year in the penitentiary in June, 1925, for violating the narcotic act.

LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW

William F. Heidenreich, Sr., late of Morrowfield avenue, in his will filed for probate yesterday leaves an estate valued at $23,000 to his widow, Winifred G. Heidenreich.

Charles Daum, late of Kirkbride street, North Side, leaves an estate valued at $13,500, according to his will. After leaving 52 shares of common stock of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company to his brother, nieces and nephews, he leaves 26 shares and his house and lot in Kirkbride street to his sister, Annie M. Emery.

SACRED HEART STUDENTS TO PRESENT 'BETHLEHEM'

Under the direction of Miss Bertha Fuhrer, dramatic teacher, and Earl Scanlon, instructer in choral work, the senior class of Sacred Heart High School is preparing to stage Laurence Housman's drama, "Bethlehem," in the New Guild Hall, 5920 Center avenue, December 19.

'The Personal'

THIS model is "the little aristocrat" of the home or office. "The Personal" is particularly adaptable for den desk, boudoir escritoire or library table. The pen is of the same generous proportions and guaranteed everlasting construction as those of the double sets, and rich jade marbled red, or blue in color. "The Personal" makes an exquisite gift to the boy or girl at college.

The base is made of the same indestructible, marbled composition as used in the large sets; three color combinations. "The Personal" is four by five inches in size. The most popular pen set ever made.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

A Gripping of the Heart

A sudden gripping of the heart, then a feeling that it has stopped completely—that's a serious sign. Many people today suffer heart trouble as a result of system-poisoning. It comes from our abnormal living habits, which put too great a strain upon the "purification" organ, the liver. The liver becoming sluggish and congested fails to cleanse the blood of poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected. The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove itself. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol.

A Biography of Comics --That's "Funny Folks"

The part the comic character plays in the nation's social existence is emphasized by the popularity of "All the Funny Folks," master cartoon book now on sale in hundreds of stores and news stands.

Furnishing relief to the daily routine, giving the household the merriest of all laughs—the laughter of children, the comic characters have reached an eminence and popularity all their own.

Nearly every newspaper in the nation prints varying numbers of cartoons. The business of drawing an interesting "strip" is lucrative. Men and women and children enjoy them because they are inoffensively funny.

And now that these characters have reached stardom, it is natural that they have "biographies." That's what "All the Funny Folks," all of its 112 pages and 500 illustrations is—a biography of all the comic folks. The books are on sale at the following dealers, among the many:

SAYS HUSBAND PLAYED 'ROUND

That Howard E. Bartells entertained other women who became intoxicated in their home was among the charges Mrs. Anna E. Bartells, of 5515 Dunkirk street, made against him in her divorce action heard yesterday by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court. When she questioned him about entertaining other women he choked her and wanted to know if he couldn't have friends without being questioned.

MENNONITES DECLINING, SECT GROWS WEALTHIER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—A church census announced yesterday by the Department of Commerce shows the Mennonite faith slowly declining numerically, but growing in wealth. Latest figures show there are 294 churches, with 23,943 members, as compared to 307 churches and 34,965 members in 1916.

Sure Way to Stop Night Coughing

A Prescription That Ends Night Coughs in 15 Minutes

Persistent night coughing is usually due to causes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. A remarkable prescription known as Thoxine, working on an entirely different principle, goes direct to the cause, and is guaranteed to stop the stubbornest cough within 15 minutes. One swallow is all that's needed. If it fails, get your money back. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe for children. Equally good for sore throat, for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Ask for Thoxine. 35c, 60c, and $1.00. At all druggists.

"Listerine, madam,—quickly"

Even children know that at the first sign of throat irritation, the use of Listerine as a gargle will often ward off colds—or worse.

Sore throat is a natural warning that should always be heeded. It is Nature's way of telling you that disease germs are fighting for the upper hand, and that prompt measures are necessary.

Listerine, as you know, has been the standard family first aid in these matters for more than a half century.

Being antiseptic, it immediately attacks the countless disease-producing bacteria that lodge in the oral cavity. Time and time again, it has nipped a serious complication in the bud.

Honestly, now, isn't it worth while to take this pleasant morning-and-night precaution every day during the cold weather, when so many people are laid up? Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

FIRE SWEEPS HILL BLOCK

A Hill district fire last night caused injuries to two firemen and damage estimated at $35,000 to five frame business buildings in Mahon street. Three alarms were sounded and firemen fought two hours before extinguishing the flames. The damaged buildings were at 2201, 2203, 2205 and 2207 Mahon street, and 2204 Humber way. Firemen James Snyder and Joseph Harper, members of Engine Company No. 5, were cut and bruised when caught under a falling wall. After being treated by Dr. Daniel B. Sable, chief surgeon of the Public Safety Department, they were taken to the Mercy Hospital. The following companie uffered damage: The Barretti Bakery Company, Excelsior Printing Company, H. Levith Bakery Supply Company, the Lenzer Beverage Company and the Feitler and Glick Bottling Company.

FIRST LADY BEGINS CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Coolidge has begun her Christmas shopping. She toured the downtown district of Washington yesterday and came across a bevy of school children who had been given a day's recess to see the Santa Claus in the store windows. She chatted with the children and told them she hoped they would enjoy Christmas.

URGES KELLOGG TO CALL FOR SHOWDOWN

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Secretary of State Kellogg is called upon to furnish the House of Representatives whatever information he may have to substantiate the articles in Hearst newspapers exposing Mexican intrigue against this country, in resolutions filed by Rep. Sirovich (D.) of New York in the House yesterday.

Declaring that maintenance of good will and friendship between the United States and Mexico depends upon fair dealing of their officials toward each other, the Sirovich resolutions direct the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to conduct a sweeping investigation of the Hearst revelations.

The Secretary of State is called upon to ask the Mexican government for such proof as it may have to substantiate or question the authenticity of the document printed.

Aroused by the amazing revelations of the document printed by the Hearst newspapers, members of Congress demanded that the investigation be conducted at once, so that the country may be assured of the facts in the expose.

Rep. Black (D.) of New York, had previously filed resolutions calling for a Congressional investigation.

The articles published in the Hearst newspapers have created widespread comment," said Sirovich, continuing:

"Denials of the authenticity has been made in some quarters. Yet it is doubtful that the newspapers conducted by William Randolph Hearst would publish the facsimiles if they had not obtained them from a reliable source.

"In view of the importance of these revelations in the relations between the United States and Mexico, I believe that it is the duty of Congress to ascertain the facts and call before it officials of the Hearst publications and all others, who may be in a position to shed light on the astounding documents, said to have been issued by President Calles of Mexico."

ZEEK GUILTY ON AUTO CHARGE

For a second time in two days, Robert R. Zeek, former city patrolman, heard a jury in Criminal Court find him guilty. Convicted yesterday of bigamy, Zeek, father of seven, today heard a jury pronounce him guilty of violating the automobile laws. While he was being trailed on the bigamy charge, Zeek was found driving automobiles bearing license plates, issued to Mrs. Alma Herr, Forest avenue, and to James W. Fisher, 330 McKinley avenue. Zeek said he borrowed the machines.

Underworld Riot Follows Slaying by Gang Leader

"BULL" WEED, well-known gangster, murdered "Buck" Mulligan, rival gang leader, following the underworld ball, early this morning. The killing came as a result of Mulligan's undue attention to "Feathers," Weed's moll, or underworld sweetheart, shown with him above.

Another raw, red melodrama was enacted in the underworld early this morning. "Bull" Weed, noted leader in crime, shot and killed his rival for gang supremacy, "Buck" Mulligan, following the latter's attempt to steal "Feathers," Weed's moll.

Weed and Mulligan both attended "The Big Drag" last night, the annual underworld dance. Weed, through his powerful influence, had "Feathers" voted queen of the dance. Mulligan, who has long been a sworn enemy of Weed's, thinking that Weed was too drunk to interfere, lured "Feathers" into an empty room on the pretext of being crowned queen of the party. Mulligan's moll, insanely jealous of him, carried the news to Weed, who broke down the door, but not before Mulligan could make good his escape.

Weed followed, and finding Mulligan in his flower shop, fired one shot, killing him instantly. The police were immediately notified, and hurrying to Weed's hangout, captured him after a determined fight. He is now in the Tombs awaiting trial.

What a story—will Weed be hanged—or will he go free? For further information on the underworld's most sensational murder, see Paramount's latest super-film, "UNDERWORLD," picturing the love of two crooks for one girl—and the resulting conflict. This matchless melodrama begins a week's engagement Monday, December 12, at the Grand and Liberty Theaters. There will be a special midnight show at the Grand Sunday, December 11, beginning at 12:05 a. m.

JUST ADD HOT WATER!

and serve . . .
delicious, creamy cocoa

FOR breakfast here's a creamy new cocoa that you can prepare in a second and with no trouble at all.

Put it in the cup and just add hot water. Rich, creamy milk is already in it and it's just sweet enough.

You can make it right in the cup or in your chocolate pot. No cooking. No planning on extra milk. No "skin" to form. No pans to wash afterwards.

This new instant cocoa is a delicious blend made by the makers of the famous Peter's Milk Chocolate.

Get a tin of this new Peter's cocoa today and see how it will delight your family. Your grocer will supply you.

New Orleans
the winter capital . .
where the width of a street separates the old world from the new

"THE Paris of America" is often used to summarize the attractions of New Orleans. The visitor is delighted with the warm and sunshiny days that prolong outdoor diversions all through the winter. Bring your golf sticks as well as your guide book, because between strolls through the old French Quarter you will want to play the city's splendid courses. Steamer trips on the river, excursions to nearby Evangeline land, horse and whippet racing, boating—fill the days with interest. The restaurants are world famous. Social life is gay and colorful. And faces and tongues from many lands make the setting a truly cosmopolitan one.

only all-Pullman train between these cities. Luxuriously equipped with club and observation cars, shower baths, radio and other modern features. No extra train fare. All L. & N. trains to New Orleans traverse the beautiful Gulf Coast, where you may conveniently stop over and visit.

LINDY PROMISES HIS PLANE TO SMITHSONIAN

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Col. Lindbergh, winged argonaut, yesterday was presented the Langley medal for aeronautics by the Smithsonian Institution, in recognition of his lone flight across the Atlantic. In accepting the medal Col. Lindbergh promised the board of regents of the institution that, eventually, his plane, The Spirit of St. Louis, will be given to the Smithsonian.

Decision to present the plane to the government was made, Col. Lindbergh said, at a recent meeting of the backers of his historic flight, in St. Louis. The machine will be added to a collection of famous aircraft already on display here.

The medal was presented at the annual meeting of the board of regents by Chief Justice William Howard Taft, chancellor of the institution. It is inscribed: "To Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, in recognition of his daring non-stop flight from New York to Paris on May 20 and 21, 1927."

Chicago to Help Girls Protect Bare Knees

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—If fashion won't protect girls from cold knees, the Chicago Health Department will.

Dr. A. H. Hegel, the city's new health commissioner, came to work, watched the mercury cringe in the bottom of its glass house and issued a warning to the ladies.

"Frost can affect the limbs just as it does the ears or face," he said. "Frost causes spots which become blanched and swollen. The thing to do is rub the spots with snow.

"There is danger here of frost bitten legs for girls who wear silk stockings and insufficient clothing. Wool stockings, long underwear or galoshes are the thing."

SHIELDS LISTS $185 EXPENSES

The expense account of George B. Shields, unsuccessful candidate for county commissioner on the Independent ticket, filed yesterday, shows no receipts and expenditures of $185. No mention is made of a contribution of $1,500 to the McGovern-Shields campaign committee listed in the committee's account filed Wednesday.

D. J. Patterson spent $334.10 to win the fight for city treasurer of Clairton in an independent campaign against the Republican organization, after having met defeat at the primaries. He has no contributions.

50 STUDENTS TO APPEAR IN PANTOMIME PROGRAM

A cast of 50 pupils from Taylor Allderdice High School will be included in a presentation of Oscar Wilde's "Happy Prince," in pantomime, before a meeting of the Taylor Allderdice Teachers' Association, December 14.

Alice Brady Gets Free Advice From Ministers and Atheists About Brimstone and Sawdust

By GEORGE SEIBEL

ALICE BRADY started in by singing "Peep-Bo" in her father's all-star revival of "The Mikado." Today she is playing Sister Mary MacDonald in "The Ark"—delivering a nightly sermon to sinners in a big gospel tent. In between she has done many things, from "Little Women" to the movies, learning all the time. Her father, William A. Brady, would keep her in one of his productions three or four weeks, and then shift her to another, so that she was able to crowd the experience of many years into a few seasons.

GEORGE SEIBEL

And now behold an emotional actress who can pull your heartstrings out and drain your tear-ducts.

"I want to be a comedienne," she says, "but I can't get away from sin and sorrow. Last year I was the 'Bride of the Lamb,' and now I have to convert 75 supers at every performance. It's hard on a girl who'd like to be a romping Rosalind or something gay and festal."

Despite this frivolous intimation, Sister Mary MacDonald is taking her vocation very seriously. Even if she were not, others are taking it seriously for her. One note that came back to her dressing room the other night asked whether she would not be interested in a certain collection of hymns especially adapted to revival purposes. A letter that came by mail had an even more startling business proposition.

"I do not know what denomination you belong to," the letter begins, "but that does not make any difference. I am a retired minister with much experience in revivalistic work, and I would like to help you. My idea is to have a real experience meeting in the theater between the acts, and let me conduct it. If the audience could be got to join in the grand old hymns, many would come forward for prayer. The first row might be reserved as the mourners' bench, and sawdust in the aisles like as if the theater was a tabernacle. I know your meeting on the stage is only make-believe, but that would not hurt at all. I can help you put more brimstone into your message, and that's what helps to bring in the sheaves. If we get some real converts in the audience, the churches would endorse the show, providing some of the strong language was mildened."

Miss Brady has not accepted this offer of co-operation, nor will any special brand of hymns be advertised.

"Plays of this sort, with a contemporaneous interest," she said, "always awake a personal response in many of the people out front. I've been getting circulars from the A. A. A. A., that's the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, on the one hand, and invitations to various churches and mission circles on the other hand. Somebody wants me to meet Uldine Utley, and somebody else sends me a dozen copies of the 'Truth Seeker.' I'm very glad I can't be arrested for preaching without a license."

"It happened to Paul and Silas," I suggested.

"They converted a hard-boiled jailer and got out," she replied. "In a few weeks I'll be sufficiently charged with brimstone, and won't be afraid."

Harold Lloyd Insures His Famous "Spectacles"

The most highly prized pair of horn rims, for spectacles, in the world were insured the other day for $25,000 by one of the old line companies, which deals in "freak coverage."

It is not so much a freak stunt, however, as a sentimental one. The applicant for the policy is Harold Lloyd, and the spectacles are the first pair he ever wore in moving pictures.

"UNCLE WIGGILY" COMES TO ENTERTAIN KIDDIES

A special matinee for children will be given in Carnegie Music Hall, tomorrow, when the Jean Gros French Marionettes will present "Uncle Wiggily in Wonderland." All the well known characters are to be present, including Uncle Wiggily and his hollow Stump Bungalow, the Fuzzy Fox, the Donkey, the Parrot, Jocko, the Monkey Boy and the Bunny Orchestra of 12 pieces. There will be 75 Marionettes taking part in the play.

The Notorious Mr. Pilate

We didn't get this picture from the rogues' gallery, however. It isn't really Pilate, himself, but it Victor Varconi in a characterization of Pontius in "The King of Kings," a De Mille picture.

Movie "Kaiser" Is Demoted To "Mister"

Lawrence Grant is to play the part of Percival Fream, wealthy English gentleman in "Doomsday," Florence Vidor's new starring picture for Paramount. Grant last appeared in Adolphe Menjou's picture, "Serenade." In that vehicle he was plain Josef Bruckner, without a title. It was the first picture in some time that he did not have a crown or patent of nobility given him. In Menjou's picture, "A Gentleman of Paris," Grant was a baron; in the same star's previous vehicle, "Service for Ladies," he was a king, and on innumerable occasions he has played the part of the former Kaiser.

In fact for a time Grant was afraid that he would never have an opportunity to do anything but portray the German ex-ruler, after having made a tremendous hit in that role.

It is quite an unmartial part that he is to take in Miss Vidor's picture. The Percival Fream he is to portray is anything but warlike and is, on the contrary, rather an effeminate old gentleman who persists in thinking the thoughts of 25 after he has passed the half-century mark.

Gary Cooper, former cowboy hero, is to be Miss Vidor's leading man, and Roland V. Lee, the man who made "Barbed Wire," is to direct. Production will start immediately.

Conert Tonight By Cleveland Orchestra

The Cleveland Orchestra, Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor, will give the third pair of concerts in the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association series in Syria Mosque tomorrow night and tomorrow afternoon. The works to be given follow:

FRIDAY NIGHT.

Overture to "The Magic Flute" ... Mozart
Two Nocturnes: "Clouds" and "Festivals" ... Debussy
La Procession del Rocio ... Turina
Trilogy en fete; La Procession, Symphony No. 2, E Minor, Op. 27 ... Rachmaninoff

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Symphony No. 8, B Minor, "Unfinished" ... Schubert
Theme and Variations, Finale-Polacca, from Suite No. 3, Op. 55 ... Tschaikowsky
Overture, "Sakuntala," Op. 13 ... Goldmark
Symphonic Poem, "La Procession Nocturne" ... Rabaud
School of the Little Fauns, from the ballet Cydalise and the Satyre ... Pierne
Symphonic Poem, "Finlandia," Op. 26, No. 7 ... Sibelius

A special concert for children will also be given this afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock in Carnegie Music Hall.

Constance to Star In McCutcheon Film Story

Since Constance Talmadge completed "Breakfast at Sunrise," the last of her Joseph M. Schenck Productions for First National release, the film world has been wondering whether she would resign with First National or release through United Artists.

All doubts as to Miss Talmadge's future are dispelled by the announcement from Joseph M. Schenck that she has signed a long-term contract to release through United Artists. The star's first picture will be "East of the Setting Sun," by George Barr McCutcheon, author of "Graustark," in which Norma Talmadge starred two years ago. "East of the Setting Sun" is a rather different type story from the sophisticated comedies with which Constance has so long been identified, in that it will give her far greater scope for more serious dramatic acting.

Leon Errol Among Attractions Coming

Leon Errol comes to the Alvin, opening Monday night, December 12, in Gene Buck's musical comedy, "Yours Truly," which Pittsburgh helped to launch just about a year ago. It is a musical comedy with a dramatic story that is rendered still more enjoyable by the melodies that are legitimately introduced.

Clara Verdera plays the part of an inquisitive novelist in the mystery thriller, "Wooden Kimona," which will 1 in the Nixon next week, opening Monday evening, December 12.

Harry Beresford, comedian, is to be next week's Keith-Albee vaudeville headliner in the Davis, appearing in a condensation of "The Old Soak." On the screen will be Janet Gaynor in "2 Girls Wanted."

Guests Invited to Abie's Screen Wedding

Engraved invitations announcing the marriage of Miss Rosemary Murphy, daughter of Patrick Joseph Murphy of the well-known fighting Murphys of Kilkenny, to Abraham Levy, son of Solomon Levy of the East Side, were the first hint Hollywood received of the big party.

After that, formalities crowded upon one another. It all led up to the great wedding ceremony in which the principal parts were taken by Nancy Carroll and Charles Rogers in the Paramount Studio. The entire cast of "Abie's Irish Rose" was present, throwing rice, to be sure. And in addition, the invited guests just took the place. More than 200 invitations were sent out, and those who accepted included scores of film celebrities and most of the newspaper correspondents.

Director Victor Fleming was a sort of master of ceremonies, and Anne Nichols, author of the play, acted as if she were matron of honor.

Alice Joyce Once Was "Still" Actress

Alice Joyce, who has just completed an emotional role supporting Richard Barthelmess as the governor's wife in First National's "The Noose," has the record of being one of the few film players who was formerly a "still" actress. In other words, Miss Joyce broke into the movies after a career as photographer's model, posing for illustrated song-slides.

When the Kalem Company sought a leading woman for "The Engineer's Sweetheart," they needed a girl who could ride a horse expertly. One of the photographers who had been using Miss Joyce as a model, declared he knew just the girl they sought.

Miss Joyce got the role, with a promise of $5 a day for her services. But they surprised her and gave her $10, and thus started a picture career that has covered a number of years and a wide diversity of roles.

Miss Joyce does some remarkable work as the governor's wife in "The Noose," and it is predicted that it will be known as her greatest role.

A good company, it is said, supports Barthelmess in this picturization of Willard Mack's stage play. Lina Basquette, former Follies dancing star, plays the cabaret girl; Thelma Todd is seen as the society girl and Montague Love is the "heavy."

Star Sells Elastic Golf Suits in New Film

Richard Dix and his company making the picture, "The Traveling Salesman," are hard at work again after more than a week's lay-off, due to the attack of influenza, which disabled the star. Although the doctor ordered Dix to "go slow," the actor has thrown himself vigorously into his role of selling elastic-shouldered golf suits to the country merchants, and the cameras are grinding.

Gertrude Olmsted, Dix's leading woman in this picture, is one of the best known free-lance players in Hollywood. She has played recently in "Mr. Wu" an "The Callahans and the Murphys." Malcolm St. Clair is directing. The story is adapted from James Forbes' stage play of the same title.

TRAIN CRUSHES AUTO, KILLS W. VA. MAN

A man was killed and his wife injured seriously when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train last night at the Oakdale crossing. The victims were P. M. Petrel, 35, and his wife, of Follansbee, W. Va. The woman was removed to Mercy Hospital. The automobile was thrown against a signal pole and demolished.

Caught beneath an automobile truck that overturned in Versailles avenue, McKeesport, last night, Mary Fey, 13, of 2816 Banker street, McKeesport, suffered a crushed leg. She was taken to the McKeesport Hospital. The truck was upset, it is said, when rammed by the machine of David W. Auld of McKeesport. Mrs. Sophie Petenick, 43, of 2914 Apple way, Duquesne, was injured seriously Wednesday night when run down by an automobile near her home. She is in the McKeesport Hospital suffering internal injuries.

A Slave to Worry

paying daily toll to cachexia (run-down condition)

Beset by doubts and fears, nervous and irritable, constantly worn down to the ragged edge, how many women and men today are suffering the ravages of cachexia (run-down condition)? Probably millions. But it is pleasant to know that a large percentage of these cases will respond to the curative powers of the simple food, yeast.

And now you can get yeast in a form you'll like—Yeast Foam Tablets. Dainty little pellets of pure yeast. Easy to swallow or fine to chew like candy. Try them once and you'll know how good they are.

In the handy pocket for 5c or the large bottle for 50c.

Eat Yeast Foam Tablets for cachexia (run-down condition). Loss of appetite. Indigestion. Constipation. Boils—Pimples.

Georgie Meets Adventure As She Boards the Ship, Fair Italy Bound

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together in Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a factory and Georgie in an insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manners and pleads with her to accept the attentions of Bill Warren, who is madly in love with her, and to have nothing more to do with Ernest Brooks, a chance acquaintance who has been rushing her. Bill makes a confidant of Ann and proposes to Georgie, who refuses him. Ann's solicitude for her sister ends in a quarrel between the two, and Ann becomes conscious that she herself is fond of Bill, and the day after the quarrel he asks her to have lunch with him. During lunch he shows he is still devoted to Georgie, and Ann asks him why he doesn't call on her sister that evening. Bill comes to the boarding house and after waiting for Georgie sees her arrive with Ernest. Georgie vindictively tells Bill she doesn't care if she never sees him again, and in desperation he turns to Ann and asks her if she would be willing to go out with him now and then. Ann discovers that Bill has been drinking and shows her great disappointment in him, but resolves to do all she can to help him. Meanwhile Georgie, in a spirit of adventure, goes to call on Ernest in his studios. He proposes a trip abroad with her, promising to marry her when they get to Italy. Georgie leaves his studio, telling him that was impossible.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

IT WAS dark already, but she couldn't go to the boat yet, and she did not know how to pass the time best.

Somehow she wasn't a bit hungry. Still it would be easiest to go to a restaurant and waste time there. She directed the driver to a place she knew. Looking at her purse, she wished she had taken Ann's advice and saved a little of her money. Of course, Ernest would take care of her that way, but still it would be nice to have something of her very own.

She bought a paper and read it laboriously, taking care to eat very slowly. There was a murder on the front page, two holdups, an act of heroism, an important political issue, but Georgie felt not only indifferent to these things, but a kind of pitying contempt. Imagine getting excited about other people's lives when your own was so much more exciting!

Yet how slowly the time passed after all. Georgie tried to think of the colorful future, but somehow it was vague. It was easier to think about the present. She reflected that she ought really to have let her employers know she wasn't coming back.

But then they'd call up the house, probably to find out if she were ill, and Mrs. O'Leary would tell them the news.

And Ann—how was Ann taking it, for Ann knew already. She would say nothing, of course, just think hard. Perhaps she would try to find Georgie first, beg her for the last time. Perhaps she was frantically hunting for Georgie now! Georgie was glad she hadn't said where or how she was going. Ann might have come down to the boat itself, and there would have been a terrible scene.

Georgie felt suddenly cruel and selfish. In a tide of abnegation she promised herself to write a letter the very first moment she had a chance, telling Ann how happy she was, how beautifully everything was going.

For the last time her thoughts hovered over Ernest Brooks. But in sheer desperate loyalty now she would not permit herself to criticize him in any way. She was in love with him, too, of course she was! She wanted to love him anyway, and that was all that was necessary, wasn't it?

It was almost 8 o'clock. Georgie felt a little breathless. She paid her dinner check, and took another cab, naming the pier. Dark streets, cobble stones, the loom of great warehouses, then the wharves and the shadowy outlines of ships.

She saw the throng of people, passengers and friends seeing them off, at the entrance. She found her grip taken from her hands, followed obediently, stepped up the gangplank. She smelt the water beneath, heard the talk and cheerful laughter of people coming and going.

Automatically she had repeated the number of Ernest's stateroom. She went down the passageway, crossed an elaborate room, went into another passage still. The steward paused before a door. Georgie knocked. There was the sound of a voice, and the door was opened.

Georgie stepped inside. For one instant an apology came to her lips, for she thought it could only be that she had been taken to the wrong stateroom. She was not facing Ernest Brooks, but a tall, handsome woman, with a cigaret in her fingers.

The next instant Georgie recognized her. She was Mrs. Mountford, the woman who had been in Ernest's studio, who had been so supercilious and contemptuous.

Yes, this was Ernest's stateroom, only—what was this woman doing here?

The next instant Mrs. Mountford had closed the door.

"Sit down, won't you?" she said pleasantly, "put your bag down."

CHAPTER XXV.

GEORGIE'S head swam. She felt confused and uncertain. Across the stateroom the older woman faced her, smiling, completely at ease.

And Georgie, trying to get things clear, sank down, breathing slowly, unable to say any of the thousand things that filled her mind.

But Mrs. Mountford did not seem to notice her diffidence. She offered Georgie a cigaret, and when Georgie merely shook her head, she lit the one she had been holding and blew out the smoke slowly.

"Ernest is late, isn't he?" she murmured casually. "But then he's always late."

"You—you've come to see him off!" Georgie found her voice at last. Or rather a strange, dry voice that faintly resembled hers.

"Well—in a sense. He doesn't expect me, you see. It was just luck that I happened to find out."

"Oh, I see," Georgie answered, but the frown in her forehead said still more clearly that she did not see. She did not understand at all why Mrs. Mountford was here. What right had she to be here? What had Ernest to do with her anyway. Georgie felt jealous of Mrs. Mountford's calm worldliness, her air of tired knowledge, of taking lovely things to wear, and lovely things to do, just as matter of course.

"He didn't tell you when he'd get here?" Mrs. Mountford pursued.

"No."

"Ever been to Italy before?"

Georgie stiffened. "What do you mean?"

"Well, this boat is sailing for Italy, isn't it? Naturally I supposed you're going there."

"But I—I'm just seeing him off, too."

Mrs. Mountford looked at the bag and laughed. But it was not a malicious laugh.

Georgie flushed deeply—so Mrs. Mountford knew all about this trip. Ernest must have told her! He must have told her everything! This—the most important adventure of her life—and Ernest had confided in this woman!

Her words seemed inadequate to express her feelings, when she said curtly:

"So he told you, did he?"

"Told me?" Mrs. Mountford opened her eyes widely. "Of course he didn't tell me."

"Then how did you know."

"My dear, it's as plain as an open book. For one thing I know Ernest. And even if I hadn't, your face would have told me everything the moment you opened this door and found me here. You looked absolutely guilty, besides there's your bag."

Georgie bit her lip. "Have you known Ernest a long while. Are you an old friend of his?" she asked abruptly.

"I've known him quite a while. But I'm scarcely a friend."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean we cordially detest each other."

"But then why did you come to say good-by to him?" Georgie demanded.

"Business reasons. You see, I have certain claims on Ernest."

The old, cynical voice rasped on Georgie's nerves. Suddenly she felt alone and frightened, unable to cope with the problems and terrors that thronged existence. A wave of fear rose in her, and though she fought it, it was no use.

But Mrs. Mountford's face had assumed an extraordinary change. Suddenly she looked wise and sad and gentle. Even the chilly tones of her clever voice had become kinder.

"Take my advice. Run on home. Get off this coat, my dear. Go back to your friends."

Into Georgie's troubled head came the ahought that this woman was jealous; no doubt she wanted to marry Ernest herself and she seemed terribly capable of getting her own way.

"You think I'm a fool, don't you?" she said. "Go home—and leave him to you! As if I didn't realize you wanted to get rid of me."

Mrs. Mountford gave a short, incredulous laugh. For a moment she did not answer, and in the silence through the opened port, could be heard the harbor sounds and the faint splash of water, and the voices of passengers embarking, and saying goodby to friends.

Then at last Mrs. Mountford spoke again, very quietly now.

"Listen to me! I do think you're a fool—but you're a charming innocent little fool. I'm several years older than you are, and I happen to know what I'm talking about. Once—when I wasn't quite so old—I fell in love. The man was married. But I was in love—in love!

He had a little place on the coast. I was supposed to go West; I went with him instead. Well, you see I've not forgotten, and you see, this is a story without a moral, because I wasn't found out. Don't think I'm telling you something everyone knows. But I haven't reached the end of the story. Here it is:

"Three years later I married another man. I tried to love him but I couldn't. My marriage was a dismal failure—all around. Now I haven't anything—and every year that I grow older—well, you don't know what that means to a woman like me."

She was silent, only staring before her, with hands folded, and an ironic smile curving her bright mouth.

"But what's that got to do with me?" Georgie asked.

"Everything. Do you want to do just what I've done?"

"You don't understand. Ernest and I are to be married."

"He told you that?" Mrs. Mountford looked at Georgie's flushed face, her excited, unhappy eyes. Then she shook her head. She put out her hand and touched the girl's sleeve. "Don't be a fool," she ended softly. "Go home,

CONVICT WIDOW, BEACH OF MANSLAUGHTER

By DAMON RUNYON,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 9.—Voluntary manslaughter, which is a sort of a "Mexican stand-off" in the murder business, was the verdict of the jury against the Widow Lilliendahl and Willis Beach last evening.

A "Mexican stand-off," as Brother Samuel Bark, the star witness for the state, might have explained but for the fact that only his heel dust is now visible against the far horizon, is when you lose your money, but save your life. It is the next-to-best that we have in stock, in the way of murder verdicts, and it is generally accepted as a compromise among the five women and seven men who struggled for more than 23 hours with the case.

Voluntary manslaughter is a species of killing in the heat of passion, and under provocation, as I understand it. The testimony did not seem to show that the aged Dr. William Lilliendahl, whose murder was charged to the widow and to Beach, had presented any provocation to anybody as he sat in his car in "murder lane" September 15, or even that he was mad at anybody at the moment, but possibly the jury figured that the verdict would be a good lesson to the widow and Willis, anyway.

CONDEMNED CALM

They both received it rather calmly. She sat biting her nails. Willis, who sat beside her as the verdict was read, seemed to shrivel up a bit, but his bright little eyes were batting as briskly as those of an alert old rooster.

S. Cameron Hinkle, the assistant prosecutor, was highly in favor of the defendants being sentenced forthwith, and as he said the jury by its verdict had exercised all the mercy that seemed coming to them, he wanted them to have the full limit of the law.

SEEK NEW TRIAL

Supreme Court Justice Luther Campbell, who had been presiding over the trial since it started 11 days ago in the little red brick court house on the Harding Highway, was quite disposed to break the news to Willis and the widow immediately, but finally postponed sentence until Saturday morning, when Robert H. McCarter and Charles Phillips, the woman's attorneys, said they would present information that had come to them since the case went to the jury to support a motion for a new trial.

The maximum penalty for voluntary manslaughter in New Jersey is 10 years in prison or $1,000 fine or both, but the judge can fix any penalty up to the maximum. The court also can give the defendants the maximum sentence and suspend the sentence.

The jury returned its verdict at 4:35 o'clock in the afternoon.

The only absentee of any note when the verdict came in was little "Alfy," the widow's 8-year-old son. It was the second session he missed. He was not present Wednesday evening, when light chit-chat and general sociability was the order of the evening with the widow and her relatives and fellow members of the South Vineland Pinochle Society, because it seems the old sandman sneaked up and nailed "Alfy."

Then too, the assistant prosecutor had hollered so loudly about the presence of "Alfy" as a bid for sympathy that perhaps the defendant felt it was just as well he was kept away.

Judge Campbell called the Lilliendahl-Beach jury in when Obie's trial started yesterday morning to see if the court might contribute anything to their comfort and the widow Lilliendahl had to take a chair right next to Obie, with Willis near by. However, Obie never even glanced at them. He knows how he stands socially in the order of alleged murderers, and he kept his place.

VERDICT SURPRISE.

No one who has followed the case expected a conviction until the jury let the hours wear along without signifying any agreement.

The members of the Ladies' Pinochle Society, of South Vineland, who chanced to hear the verdict, stepped out into the evening air somewhat dumbfounded, leaving Mrs. Lilliendahl over there in the dark jail to the consolation of her relatives. They seemed to feel very, very sorry for her.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—Arrived in Mexico City and found President Coolidge has issued another "choose." He told the Republicans to search vigorously, and they will have to. Mexico was pleased with his message.

If Vare and Smith fall down on American Senate, have them get in touch with me, and I can get them in the Senate here.

$1,215,000 FOR FOUR SENATORS

FUND GIVEN TO AGENT, CALLES INFORMED

One said by Elias to have acted in that capacity in the proposed payment of $1,200,000 to three senators.

Another interesting exhibit in the possession of the Hearst papers is an actual ledger sheet, taken from the ledger of the Mexican Government's "Department of Auditing and Revision of Foreign Accounts," a branch of the Treasury Department.

Page No. 251 of this ledger contains an entry recording the transfer of $1,200,000 to the Mexican Financial Agent in New York, purported to be for payment to the three United States senators who are mentioned by name. The Hearst papers have this loose-leaf ledger sheet, with the various entries typed in red. It is reproduced in facsimile elsewhere in The Sun-Telegraph.

The first of the original Mexican Government documents reproduced in connection with this article is an order issued by the Controller General, Luis Montes de Oca, and directed to the Official Mayor, or Chief Clerk of his department. It was issued July 15, 1926, and stated that the "Citizen President of the Republic" had ordered the payment of $1,200,000 to three American senators, named them, and specified the amount each was to receive.

The names of the senators have been deleted from the photographic reproduction and English translation of these documents. As stated yesterday, the Hearst papers will submit these original documents to Congress for investigation and such action as that body may deem appropriate, and in these originals the names will remain intact.

The text of the Montes de Oca letter follows:

To the Chief Clerk of the Controller's department:

By direction of the Citizen President of the Republic you will please order the passage of expediente No. 14,396, corresponding to authorization No 3481, issued by the Presidency of the Republic in favor of the Citizen Arturo M. Elias, Financial Agent of Mexico in New York, for the sum of $1,200,000 (One million two hundred thousand dollars), to be charged to secret expenditures for pro-Mexican propaganda, to be paid in the following terms:

To Mr. $350,000
To Mr. $500,000
To Mr. $350,000

The total of which our said Financial Agent has duly delivered (or will deliver) without exacting the corresponding receipts, given the honorability and high personality of the recipients.

It is therefore ordered by superior authority that this expediente pass the auditing department without the corresponding requisites of law.

Calles Rushes Funds

There was considerable delay in the transfer of the funds specified in the foregoing Montes de Oca order, as explained in preceding articles of this series, and on August 5 the Mexican Treasury Department was advised by President Calles that Financial Agent Elias had cabled from New York, complaining of the delay. Calles notified the Treasury Department over his written signature, that he wanted the money remitted, telegraphically, in compliance with his order of July 15. This original document is in the hands of the Hearst papers and will be placed at the disposition of Congress.

The Calles order to the Treasury Department, embodying the telegraphic complaint from Elias, follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit:

You will please take note of the following telegram received today from the Mexican Financial Agency in New York:

"Your letter (from President Calles) of July 16. Bank unreceived sum of one million two hundred thousand dollars to which it refers. Please ratify your Treasury Department order so that said sum may be transferred telegraphically quickly as possible account urgency making necessary arrangements with Senator ——, regarding matter which I explained in memorandum July eighth, Please advise me by this method whether funds transferred."

Communicate this telegram to the Treasurer General of the Nation so that he will remit telegraphically the sum required, in accordance with order No. 4085 of July 15.

Georgie Meets Adventure As She Boards the Ship, Fair Italy Bound

while there's time. He hasn't any intention of marrying you."

The gentleness had gone out of Mrs. Mountford's face. She looked tired and a little disdainful once more.

"I'm sure I don't know why I talk to you like this," she said. "Why should it matter to me what you do. I'm afraid I was getting a little sentimental. Do whatever you please. Only I hope you don't mind if I—if I have a little talk with your . . . future husband, before I leave myself."

"Naturally I can't put you out," said Georgie acidly.

But Mrs. Mountford acted as if she had not even heard. She had seated herself before the small mirror and was very carefully going over her make up.

Georgie turned her head away, and waited in silence. The minutes crawled with painful slowness. Where was Ernest? What had made him late? What would happen when he arrived? Georgie had the feeling that Mrs. Mountford could have answered that, if she had wished.

CHAPTER XXVI.

A SOUND of footsteps outside, the sound of the door being tried. It was open and Ernest stepped in. His eyes lighted on Georgie.

A smile leaped to his face, a smile that had something cruel in it. He moved toward her as if to take her in his arms. Then he saw Mrs. Mountford and stopped short.

He pursed up his lips as if to whistle, and the smile vanished.

"Well?" he asked angrily.

Mrs. Mountford gave him a nod. "I hope you're in a good temper, Ernest."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I hope you're in a generous temper, let me say."

"Listen, I did my best for you last week—you had no right to come here. I don't want you here."

"I'm sorry. I shouldn't have intruded unless I had to."

"Well, say what you have to say then. Meanwhile, Georgie, would you mind—" He ended in a gesture toward the door.

But Mrs. Mountford said quickly: "Oh, our interview isn't as private as all that. In fact, I'd rather have her hear me."

"Well, what is it?" he demanded gruffly.

"It's about money, of course. I'm in difficulties again. I've got to have help."

"Well, you're not going to get it from me. I've done all I can. I can't afford any more."

He turned away, but it was plain that his refusal wasn't final.

And Georgie, with a sinking feeling, wondered why Mrs. Mountford was asking Ernest for money, as if she had a right to ask him! Hurt pride and curiosity mastered her utterly. She was astonished to hear Mrs. Mountford saying in a sattrical voice:

"It's very unfair of you Earnest not to explain to your charming young visitor—Therefore I might as well tell her myself that we—"

Ernest Brooks took a quick step towards her, but before he had reached her, she had ended smoothly.

"—are relatives."

Ernest stopped, met her eye with a long straight look. She drew at her lighted cigaret, still faintly smiling.

The explanation satisfied Georgie, even if it did not increase her liking for Mrs. Mountford. The latter was probably a distant cousin whom he had helped often, and who had abused his generosity. She had said she had certain claims upon him, and intimately aware of each other as they appeared to be, it was plain that not a spark of friendliness existed in their relationship.

Mrs. Mountford turned to Ernest: "And now I think you're perfectly willing to help me out, aren't you?"

"No I'm not!" he answered angrily.

"What a pleasant person you are, Ernest!" she said.

"Why should I be pleasant? Did you ever give me any reason for being pleasant to you?"

"Perhaps. Perhaps I did once," she murmured.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl — Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, this PSYchoanALysis situAtion actually BAFfles me, no less, because there is ONE awfully inTRIguing CHAPter in this BOOK about it which SIMply SLAYS me, my dear. I mean it is all about supPRESSED deSIRES, which are your INtimate URges, sort of, only when you are inHABited the way practicably EV'rybody is, you don't exPRESS yourself or something, which is called reLEASing your LIBido—can you BEAR it, my dear? HONestly, my dear, it simply DOESn't make SENSE because it's all so conFUsing, sort of, do you know what I mean? And ARab, my dear, simply asSASsinates me because he says he has never HAD any supPRESSED deSIRES but this BOOK says EV'rybody has them if they are HUman, which is prob'ly the reason ARab HASn't any, don't you s'pose it IS, my dear? I mean that's the only REASonable explanAtion, I s'pose. But, GOSH, I'm SIMply LIVid about the situAtion, my dear, because this PSYchoanALysis is all so VAGUE, sort of. I me... ...ere must be SOMEthing IN it but it's terribly hard to get AT, sort of, even when you underSTAND all ABOUT it the way I do, my dear, because I've been READing MADly about it for WEEKS and this BOOK makes it all PERfectly CLEAR and all, only I WISH I sort of KNEW what the AUthor was getting AT—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers — Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" — By ADELE GARRISON

THAT Lillian would be as royal in her mental amends to Mary as she had been rigid in her secret, having never voiced strictures upon the girl's conduct, I knew from her reaction to my revelation of Mary's determination to tell Philip Veritzen of her escapade as the masked dancer. But there was no time for any further discussion on the subject. Philip Veritzen was crossing the sidewalk from the drug store to the car.

"Don't spill any beans about Noel's being out there at Ticer's," she said.

"I won't, but when I speak of a young man who has attracted the interest of the young woman at The Larches just note that I mean N—, our young friend."

Noel Veritzen's name had been upon my lips, but as Otto opened the door for Noel's father to enter I changed the phrase and tried to look as if Lillian and I had been discussing someone known only to ourselves.

"Yes, she's rather a dear if she weren't quite so up-stage," Lillian replied, promptly playing up to the cue. Then she turned her attention to Philip Veritzen.

"I suppose the attendants at the mountain inn are in a row on their knees, with their foreheads touching the ground," she told him, and turned to me before he could answer her.

"You may not know that Phil represents life's most dramatic moment to many chefs and waiters. They 'weep with delight' when he smilingly arrives, and as he invariably makes them emulate the much-advertised peculiarity of the hippopotamus, they 'tremble with fear at his frown' all through his stay. But at his departure they are all in quivering ecstasy."

"Because of his leaving?" Mr. Veritzen inquired sardonically with something very like annoyance in his eyes.

"No, because of his largesse," she retorted, and something in her gamin-like smile flew to his own face and twisted his lips into an amused grin.

"You are the world's most famous goat-getter," he told her, "but please consider that I've untied mine and laid the leash in your capable hands. Go as far as you like."

"There isn't any farther," Lillian replied, wrinkling her nose at him. "You are such a dear, Phil, that there isn't much zest in baiting you. Besides, you should be sacrosanct to me. You belong to my checkered, dim-vistaed past, before Madge's time. So I'll not utter another teasing word. In fact, suppose we all double for clams for a while. This countryside is altogether too beautiful to miss, and Madge's idea of not wanting to talk is the right one. We'll chatter enough at luncheon."

"I already have subscribed to 'Madge's idea,'" Mr. Veritzen said, adroitly giving the impression that he was simply quoting Lillian's words. But there was that in his voice and eyes which told me that he deliberately had thus used my given name for the first time. I gave no indication that I had heard him beyond the perfunctory smile accorded a banal pleasantry, but I wondered if his audacity had not been prompted by Lillian's baiting. There was no manner of doubt in my mind that behind her apparently placating speech to him there had been a carefully-thought-out purpose to emphasize the fact that he belonged to another and older generation than mine. It was the thing which would most annoy him, and I knew that Lillian had used it with unerring knowledge of its effect. I knew also that she never would have been guilty of such malice to a courteous host if she had not noted and been angered for my sake by his persistent attempt to inject subtle flattering personalities to me into our conversation.

Her Glory — By MARIA JERITZA

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

MANY lovers of feminine beauty bewail the fashion of wearing the hair bobbed, feeling that long, well-cared-for hair is a woman's veritable crown of glory. But even a closely shingled bob can be glorious when it is exquisitely groomed and cared for—and this, regardless of whether it is golden, silver or tawny in hue.

A healthy, well-coiffed mop of hair is a distinct beauty asset, whether it be long or short. So let us begin at the top today in chatting about beauty and discuss ways and means of keeping the feminine head of hair a veritable halo of glory.

When a woman's health is all it should be, and her hair falls short of beauty, neglect is usually the sole cause. The hair does not require elaborate care. But it needs systematic, intelligent attention every day to look well. This daily care includes scalp massage and a good brushing.

Fine, curly hair should not be brushed quite as much as coarse, straight hair, for brushing temporarily flattens out its wave. But every head of hair should be given at least 50 strokes with two brushes each night. After that it can be water-waved if need be for the following day.

Military brushes such as men use are an excellent investment. At any rate choose two hair brushes which can be washed out without hurting them in ammonia and warm water. Then you can exercise your arms and shoulders at the same time you give your hair its 50 or 100 strokes, simultaneously, with both brushes. Brush your hair vigorously, all over your scalp.

After brushing your hair lower your head and pat it firmly with the palms of your hands until the entire scalp has been covered. This simple form of massage will start the blood to circulating vigorously. And the hair depends largely on vigorous circulation of pure blood for its beauty.

If your scalp is dry rub in the following tonic, 12 hours before each shampoo:

Oil of sweet almonds, 45 grams; essence of rosemary, 45 grams; oil of mace, ½ gram.

This mixture should be applied with a medicine dropper to your scalp, massaging it in until your entire scalp has been covered.

The simple measures I suggested, combined with a good shampoo with liquid or jelly soap, every week or 10 days, should keep your hair clean, healthy, lustrous and beautiful.

DEBTOR'S JAIL FACES EX-MILLIONAIRE THOMPSON

COURT DENIES COAL BARON'S APPEAL

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9.—Jail bars cast an ominous shadow over the figure of J. V. Thompson, onetime multi-millionaire coal baron, today when Judge J. W. Dawson overruled exceptions filed by Thompson over a $150,000 debt to the Emma Messmore estate.

Thompson was ordered to jail several months ago when he failed to meet the debt. His counsel filed 17 exceptions to the order, which held Thompson in contempt, and today, these exceptions overruled, the defendant was faced with the choice of moving to jail or finding money to pay the debt which was incurred when Thompson's financial collapse shook Western Pennsylvania.

GETS 4 YEARS FOR ATTACK

Joseph Hinton, truck driver, 1311½ Fifth avenue, McKeesport, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the workhouse by Judge Nelson McVicar. He was convicted of an attempt to attack a 6-year-old girl in East McKeesport last October.

"Go, Get It," Not Divorce Plot, Judge Rules

Because a husband tells his wife to "go ahead and get it" when she threatens to get a divorce, there is not necessarily collusion, Judge H. H. Rowand ruled yesterday.

The divorce case of Mrs. Sophia McGuire of 700 West North avenue against James F. McGuire was halted when the judge thought he detected evidence of an agreement between the two to part, but after Mrs. McGuire explained the case proceeded.

WORK 29 HOURS TO FOIL DROP IN TEMPERATURE

DOVER, Pa., Dec. 9.—In an attempt to complete a concrete pouring job before the cold wave, Charles J. Marr, architect, and 12 workmen remained on the job for more than 29 hours without sleep. The work was being done on the swimming pool of the new $125,000 Y. M. C. A. here.

THIEF LOOTS HOME OF CLOTHING AND BABY DOLL

Winter clothing and blankets and a baby doll were included in the list of loot obtained early today by a burglar who forced an entrance into the home of Mrs. Agnes Crabtree, at 822 East Ohio street. Last night's wintry blasts and the nearness of Christmas, police believe, prompted the robbery. The value of the articles stolen is estimated at $200.

ARRESTS YIELD CLUE TO ERIE ROBBERIES

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 9.—The arrest of three men and two women late Thursday has solved at least four store robberies in Erie and vicinity, and has resulted in location of loot valued at $5,000. When Erie police searched the quintet in connection with a $3,000 robbery in a Union City, Pa., store, they uncovered a quantity of nitro-glycerine.

Robbery charges are to be preferred against Fred Williams, 22; Steve Porch, 24; Jack Mathews, 21; Isobell Condron, 17, and Flora Fuller, 24, both of Conneaut, O.

Sees Airplanes as Thick as Autos

Strict regulations governing the use of small planes is the problem of aviation in the future, Lieut. Leigh Wade, Army round-the-world flier, told members of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh at their luncheon yesterday in Nixon's cafe.

Ten years, or at most 20, Lieut. Wade said, will see the air as thick with airplanes as highways are today with automobiles. "And one little sport plane," he added, "can wreck a passenger plane with 300 people in it."

Ruth Elder, aviatrix who almost crossed the Atlantic Ocean, was to have been at the luncheon, but an extra appearance at a local theater prevented.

"CAT" BURGLAR VISITS ERIE

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 9.—A burglar, believed by police to be imitating the "cat burglar" who has been terrifying Washington, D. C., has put in an appearance in Erie.

The intruder jimmied a window in the home of C. D. Parshall, 4514 Holland drive, dabbed the word "cat" over the mirror in a bedroom, and stole a tuxedo, two revolvers and two boxes of cartridges.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Cheeks, Neck and Chest Growing Deeper Every Week

Someone Ought to Tell Him How to Gain Pounds of Solid Flesh and Look Like a Real Man

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now, for McCoy's Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

Safe Relief

You need not guess what Tonsiline contains. We print the ingredients on every bottle. They are known to be reliable for the treatment of inflamed conditions of the throats and mouths of children and adults and have been favorites in the prescriptions of physicians for many years. Over thirty years use proves Tonsiline is the perfect combination of these valuable drugs. Don't accept a subsitute. Insist on the bottle with the long necked fellow on it.

IF YOU HAD ONLY 2 YEARS TO LIVE!

How you would think, try, and spend all you possessed to cheat death, if you were told by some able physician you had but two years to live! Yet there are many readers of this paper who will not be alive two years hence. Why? Because they are going to neglect to properly cleanse their bowels and systems of the dangerous disease-producing poison wastes that bring on System Poisoning—professionally called Toxemia. And when their bowels don't act, they take some useless laxative water or cathartic pills that never reach the deadly bacteria that cling to intestinal lining, are absorbed by the blood and distributed throughout the system, to cause rheumatism and other destructive maladies.

But if you will take PARTOLA, the internal antiseptic and laxative, your chances are better. This pleasant system cleanser gets right at the poison wastes and toxins, drives them out, leaves you clean inside, ends constipation and, when taken regularly, helps digestion, improves health, encourages long life and preserves strength and energy. PARTOLA helps to keep your blood red by fighting off the poisons. All good druggists sell regular box 30¢, double size 50¢.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Cold and Snow Prompts Social Set to Renewed Activity

THE first boisterous winds of winter, whistling threats of snows to come, have put everyone in a gay Yuletide mood. The younger set of the social world has found the Christmas spirit irresistible, and accordingly is planning many merry parties. Of course, the debutantes are usually the guests of honor.

Mrs. Joseph Horne Holmes, of Devonshire street, will entertain a number of the season's buds Monday evening at the Nixon to see "The Wooden Kimona." A supper at the Pittsburgh Club will follow the play. Juliet Hillman, the debutante daughter of the junior John Hartwell Hillmans, is the guest of honor.

Mary Mellon McClung, debutante daughter of the junior Samuel Alfred McClungs, is to be the honor guest at another preholiday affair. Her cousin, Thomas Mellon, will entertain for her at a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club December 15. Dancing will follow the dinner, I hear.

Of course, the event of events in the life of the debutantes next week will be the first of the cotillions, to be held Tuesday night in the Pittsburgh Club.

Many dinners will precede the ball, at which the buds of the season are always the guests of honor.

Genevieve Bell, daughter of the A. Marshall Bells, will entertain at a dinner in her home in honor of Mary Childs, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Childs, of Albemarle avenue. Genevieve came out last winter, you will remember.

Mrs. Samuel Harden Church will give a small dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club tomorrow night in honor of Mary Louise Johnson, also a debutante, the daughter of Mrs. William Terrell Johnson. The party was originally planned for January 7.

Anne King Scott, daughter of the J. King Scotts, who will be the last of the buds to make her bow to society, has been seen at all social gatherings of the younger set this season. Anne and her parents decided to omit the usual "coming-out" tea. She will be formally presented to society, you will recall, at a dance her grandmother, Mrs. William Scott, of Devonshire street, will give in the Pittsburgh Golf Club January 2.

A number of late-season entertainments are being planned for Anne. Mrs. William R. Scott, of Northumberland avenue, will give a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club on January 7 for Anne. Dancing will follow the dinner, of course.

During the holiday season the younger boys home from school will have their social affairs, as well as their older brothers home from Princeton and Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wells, of Bennington avenue, will entertain at a small dinner in their home on Friday evening, December 23, in honor of their son James J. Turner Wells, who is known by his friends as Turner. The guests will be his classmates home from Choate School for the holidays. Following the dinner the boys will be guests at the entertainment to be given by the Princeton Triangle Club.

Entertainments are already being planned for Pauline Stevens Page, daughter of the George Stevens Pages, of Thomas boulevard, whose engagement to Lesslie Stockton Howell, son of the C. H. S. Howells, of Haverford, Pa., has just been announced.

Mrs. A. C. Dinkey, of Philadelphia, cousin of Mrs. Page, is giving a luncheon in her home today for Pauline. Covers are laid for 30.

Nancy Hamilton, daughter of the Charles Lee Hamiltons, of Sewickley, who was presented to society at a tea on November 12, will arrive home from Smith College, Northampton, Mass., on December 18. During the three weeks following that date Nancy will undoubtedly have a gay time playing the role of the debutante instead of the student.

* * *

The junior Mrs. George Liggett Craig, who was, you recall, Kathleen Casey before her marriage, was guest of honor yesterday at a tea given in the Edgeworth Club by her mother-in-law, Mrs. George Liggett Craig, of Bank street, Sewickley. The hostess and her guest of honor, together with the latter's mother, Mrs. John Francis Casey, received in the club parlor, which was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and bamboos and vases of premier roses. Mrs. Craig wore cream lace over black velvet, with a black velvet hat, and her daughter-in-law appeared in cloth of gold, with a black hat.

A note of sadness has entered the life of the debutantes of the season and the life of many others of the social world with the death of Fred R. Babcock, father of the popular debutante, Marjorie Babcock.

All the many social affairs planned for Marjorie have been canceled, of course.

Last night at 7:30 o'clock in the First United Brethren Church, Wilkinsburg, the marriage of Miss Phyllis L. Newlands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex L. Newlands, of Edgewood, and Harold F. Latham, of New Britain, Conn., was solemnized by the Rev. Earl Crosby Weaver. The bride wore white satin with a tight bodice and a full skirt of tiered tulle edged with silver. Her veil of silk embroidered net was arranged in cape effect with a coronet of Chantilly lace and rhinestones. She carried white roses showered with sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

AIDES FOR SORORITY SALE

MISS MARY B. SHAW MISS ELEANOR J. DAVIS

Miss Shaw and Miss Davis are aides for the benefit Christmas sale to be held tomorrow in the women's club room, gymnasium building, Carnegie Tech campus, by the Beta Pi sorority.

QUOTA CLUB TO HOLD INFORMAL LUNCHEON

An informal luncheon with unusual appointments is being planned by the Quota Club for Sunday at the Morrowfield Hotel. The guests of honor will be those out of town Quotarians who remain in Pittsburgh after the club's eighth anniversary dinner in the William Penn Hotel Saturday, an affair at which Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton is to be the speaker. Music for the dinner will be furnished by Mrs. Jane Packham Alexander, contralto; Miss Hilda Berkey, soprano, and Nicholas Simon, violinist. Frederick G. Rodgers will lead assembly singing and there will be orchestral music during the dinner hour. Another feature of the program will be dances by a ballet. The program is under Miss Ruby Wright's chairmanship.

A Christmas program of interest was given yesterday at the Crafton Heights Woman's Club meeting in the home of Mrs. J. W. Griffiths, Cumberland street. Mrs. C. L. Koerner discussed current events; Mrs. A. E. Hutchinson contributed Christmas carols; Mrs. J. C. Kleinbaugh told of Christmas customs in other lands and Mrs. N. S. Overholt and Mrs. M. H. Black brought Yuletide greetings. Under the philanthropic committee, of which Miss Fannie Wilson is chairman, toys were collected for the Toy Mission and 22 gowns were made for the Pittsburgh Home for Babies.

The first exhibit of the work of the Industrial League of the Council of Jewish Women is to be held tomorrow from 2 until 5 at the home of Mrs. Cass Sunstein, Bennington street, Squirrel Hill. The Industrial League is a new venture, organized by a committee of 20 local women for the purpose of giving employment to shut-ins.

4 SENATORS ORDERED PAID

The President of the Republic,
P. Elias Calles
(Hand-written)
SG/PEC/FG.

On Documents

The Seantor's name, deleted from the foregoing Calles letter, appears on other official Mexican documents as one of the proposed beneficiaries of the $1,200,000 payment. He is the one to whom Calles ordered paid the largest sum, $500,000.

President Calles, probably for emphasis, reinforced the foregoing letter with a formal order to Alberto J. Pani, the Secretary of the Treasury, for the immediate transfer of the funds desired by Elias. Calles caused copies of the order to be sent also to the Treasurer General and to the Controller General. The Hearst papers have the original of this letter, with the handwritten signature of the Mexican executive. It follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit,

You will please order the Citizen Treasurer General of the Nation to issue a pay-warrant in favor of the Citizen Financial Agent of Mexico in New York, Arturo M. Elias, for the sum of $1,200,000 (One million two hundred thousand dollars) to be paid, and charged to secret expenditures, to the persons mentioned in the annexed secret memorandum, in order to carry on a campaign in favor of Mexico.

EFFECTIVE SUFFRAGE
NO RE-ELECTION
The National Palace, Mexico, D. F., August 5, 1926.
P. Elias Calles.

Copies to:
The Treasurer General of the Nation.
The Controller General of the Nation.

Money Transferred

The two Calles orders issued on the same day got action, for the money was duly transferred to New York. On August 14, 1926, Elias informed Mexican Ambassador Tellez in Washington that he had on that day paid over to the alleged intermediary "the funds stipulated in the agreement."

Elias therefore represented that the payment of the money was contingent upon an "agreement." In the next sentence of his letter to Tellez Elias referred to a "Sheffield Clause," saying he believed it prudent "at the moment" not to make any observation regarding it, because he expected "that they will send the documents from Mexico in order to be able to present the case."

"It would be perilous," Elias continued, "to broach the matter without the necessary proofs for it to be sustained in Congress, but if you consider it important (or advisable) I will handle the matter immediately."

(Editor's Note: The Hearst papers are not able to clarify this mysterious and apparently unfriendly refernce to James Rockwell Sheffield, former United States Ambassador to Mexico.)

In the Elias letter to Tellez is found the second suggestion of an alleged agreement with one or more of the United States senators to whom he proposed to pay the $1,200,000. The first reference was contained in a letter written by Elias to President Calles on July 1, 1926, and published by The Sun-Telegraph yesterday. Readers of yesterday's article will recall that in that letter Elias wrote to the Mexican Executive:

"If there are some observations you may care to make to the memorandum of Senator ——, which you have, communicate them to me so that I may inform —— (the alleged intermediary) before delivering the funds, otherwise I shall place them at his disposition without adding a single word."

Elias Letter

A translation of the Elias letter to Ambassador Tellez follows:

New York, N. Y.,
August 14, 1926.

Senor Don Manuel C. Tellez,
Ambassador of Mexico,
Washington, D. C.

Very esteemed Senor Ambassador:

By this letter I advise you that the declarations which you gave to the press of this city during your presence here last week have caused a very good impression on the American public, counteracting effectively the propaganda of the Catholics.

—— returned two days ago from his short trip to Europe, and today I delivered to him the funds stipulated in the agreement, in order that by his conduct they may be delivered to their destination. I have believed it prudent not to make, at the moment, any observation referring to the Sheffield Clause, because I expect that they will send the documents from Mexico in order to be able to present the case. In any other manner it would be perilous to broach the matter without the necessary proofs for it to be sustained in Congress, but if you consider it important (or advisable) I will handle the matter immediately.

Without any other matter of consequence to discuss, and hoping that you will have returned without any mishap, I repeat myself

Your friend and humble servant,
EL/AME
S

Elias Pleased

Financial Agent Elias also wrote his half-brother, President Calles, a letter reporting the delivery to the alleged go-between of the sum of $1,200,000, for the latter to "deliver or place at the disposition of the senator named as the alleged half-million dollar beneficiary."

Elias, from the text of this letter, appeared to be quite pleased with himself over the "form in which this business has terminated," and expressed the hope that "the results may be all for the good of the country." The letter follows, with the names deleted.

New York, N. Y.
Aug. 18, 1926.

Senor General Plutarco Elias Calles,
President of the Republic,
Mexico, D. F.

My dear brother:

This will serve to inform you that on the fourteenth of this month I delivered to —— the sum of $1,200,000, for him to deliver or place at the disposition of Senator ——, as is stipulated in the memorandum in your possession.

I consider that you must be satisfied with the form in which this business has terminated, and that the results we expect may be all for the good of the country.

Without anything else of moment, with loving salutations for all,

Your brother who loves you.
EL/AME

To be delivered by Lionel Dalcewithz.

$15,000 "Gift"

The Treasury Department order issued by President Calles on May 12, 1926, for the delivery of $15,000 to a fourth United States senator as a "gift" for services rendered "in favor of the Proletariat of the World," is an original document, signed in ink by the Mexican executive. A translation follows:

To the Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit:

You will please direct the Citizen Financial Agent of Mexico in New York to be so good as to issue the necessary orders for payment to —— of the sum of $15,000 (fifteen thousand dollars), to be delivered by him to His Excellency Senator ——, as a gift which the Government of Mexico makes to him for the services he has rendered in favor of the Proletariat of the World.

You will order that his item be charged to secret expenditures of the Federal Executive.

Some Ways of Getting Rid of Shingles.

DR. COPELAND

AN Ohio lady writes for an article on "shingles." It is not so very long ago we discussed this painful affliction. However, it is such a troublesome disease that it is worth while to speak of it again. It is a pleasure to do so since a faithful reader asks for information.

This good woman says she had the shingles for eight weeks. "They are healed up, but still bother me," she continues.

"Shingles" is the popular name for a disease the doctors call "herpes zoster." It begins with pain, something like neuralgia, in the side, the neck, the shoulder, or sometimes one side of the head.

The most common seat of trouble is the skin over the ribs on one side of the body. But wherever spot it chooses, the disease is very unpleasant.

There are ailments which are at painful. You can be "comfortably sick," but not with shingles. This trouble makes its presence known. It keeps its victim awake and undermines his appetite.

The location of the pain corresponds to the course of one of the nerves. The tingling, smarting, burning, knife-like pains attack all parts of the skin which are supplied by the irritated nerve.

After a few days of pain there will be found a row of pimples or blisterlike elevations along the skin where the pain has been. The watery content of these blisters is changed to pus after a short time.

When the blisters break, the raw surface underneath is found to be extremely sensitive. On exposure to the air it becomes another cause for still greater pain than has been endured already.

Even after the sores heal, the neuralgic pain may continue. Forever afterward the scars of the healed spots will be a reminder of the unhappy experience.

My correspondent says she is 60. It is not unusual to find women of this age as the victims of shingles, although young people are more susceptible.

In these modern days we seek for some underlying cause for an attack of this sort. Abscessed teeth or gums are frequently an important factor.

Diseased tonsils, female disease, chronic dyspepsia, almost any obstinate disease, indeed, may be at the root of the trouble. Sometimes it is associated with influenza or malaria.

The blisters should be protected from the rubbing of the clothing. Sometimes alcohol applied to the inflamed skin will help to relieve the pain.

For the neuralgia which holds on after the spots have healed, electricity has been used. Your doctor will advise about this.

Good food, sunlight and, for its food effects, cod-liver oil—these are a few suggestions for the upbuilding of the health. In any case the advice of the family physician should be followed. After a personal study he will know best what to do in a given case.

Even Women Can't Fool Time, Says Fay King

By FAY KING.

WHEN it's Thanksgiving it's practically Christmas! At Christmas we already say Happy New Year! Then the first thing you know it's the Fourth of July again!

Time sure is the champion non-stop flier of the world! Nobody ever gets the long count on that bird!

It doesn't matter how smart you are, or how rich you are, all you can ever figure on is 60 seconds to the minute!

Foolish women spend fabulous fortunes having their wrinkles ironed out. They may fool the world and look like flappers, but they never fool Old Time for a minute!

He doesn't forget to page them because they look too young.. to die!

Markets may rise and markets may fall and fortunes be made and lost. But old Pop Time has seen dynasties and empires act like stocks and bonds. There is no bull or bear market on Time's ticker!

We are all serving Time. Sooner or later each and every one of us must pay the death penalty!

That's why I can't shed maudlin tears over the guilty who, having committed a vicious crime, are sentenced to pass through the "little green door!"

The flower of young manhood crimsoned the battlefields with their innocent blood.

Useful lives are lightly missed and mourned when sacrificed to progress!

Time is the enternal merry-go-round! Each generation rides hard and fast. We all try to reach for the ring that will entitle us to ride a little longer!

But Time collects the tickets and smiles. He knows that what seems to us such great and important events are just the same old hobby horses in a fresh coat of paint.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

ASSORTED RUMINATIONS

EVERY man is a playboy at heart, an adventurer by nature, a caveman in his own imagination, and a husband only by force of circumstance—or a woman's will.

It is a long cry from the girl who addressed a man as "Sir" almost up to the wedding-day, to the girl who calls him "Lamb-pie" after the third dance.

* * *

HELEN ROWLAND

A man's love-making is like a synthetic cocktail, a chicken croquette or a new religion: to give you any real thrill, it must be swallowed with blind faith.

When a woman no longer knows just when her husband's key turns in the latch, nights, it is a sign either of perfect faith or of perfect indifference.

A misogynist is a man who has gone through the depths of love and the shallows of flirtation with his hand on his pulse and his eye on his step—and then wondered why he got no thrill out of it.

Funny, how a man who knew every glint in a girl's eye and every note in her voice by heart, in July, can't even remember her telephone number in December.

A man is so uncertain of his own emotions, that half the time he doesn't know whether it's the fear that she'll turn him down or the fear that she'll take him up, that makes him hesitate to make love to a girl.

Somehow, a one-woman husband, like a "Keep Off" sign, is always an irresistible temptation to all other women. He looks just like a "dare"!

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

1. During whose administration was the Federal Reserve system inaugurated and how many Federal Reserve banks are there?
2. What pretty countess inspired Beethoven to write the famous "Moonlight Sonata?"
3. What was the Bed of Procrustes?
4. What Philadelphia banker was important for the financial aid he gave the Revolutionary cause?
5. Who succeeded Abraham Lincoln as President of the United States?
6. Who was Boadicea?
7. What Spanish explorer conquered Peru?
8. In warfare, what is a mortar?
9. Who invented the electric telegraph?
10. Who wrote the "Anabasis?"

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. The basis of jurisprudence in Massachusetts is English statute law.
2. Verdigris is green rust on copper.
3. The "mark of Cain" was a mark which God set upon Cain after the killing of Abel that whoever found him should not kill him.
4. Henry VIII of England was succeeded by his son Edward VI and his two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth.
5. The "Three Estates" in France prior to the Revolution were Nobles, Clergy and Common People.
6. The Azores belong to Portugal.
7. Electric waves travel at exactly the same speed as light.
8. La Rouchefoucauld, French writer and moralist, wrote the famous "Maxims."
9. Alfred Krupp was the founder of the steel foundry and gun works at Essen, Prussia.
10. Paisley shawls were first made in Paisley, Renfrewshire, Scotland.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, December 10.

One whose desires and impulses are not his own has no character.
—JOHN STUART MILL.

THE planetary positions for this day presage risks and dangers from impulsive and flighty actions, particularly in the matter of handling contracts or papers. Haste and tumult in any direction may create opportunities for fraud, loss and misunderstandings. Use calm judgment in all transactions.

Those whose birthday it is may grasp success from complicated and hazardous situations by suppressing rash and turbulent or flighty impulses. Sign papers cautiously and safeguard against treachery and misrepresentation.

A child born on this day may be mentally keen and alert, but may invite unfavorable experiences by volatility and impetuosity. It should be trained in responsibility and veracity.

Notable Nativity: Cesar French, composer.

Egg Toast

Prepare the toast in the same way as for the milk toast. Heat a pint of rich milk, adding the salt and sugar as already directed, and the butter, and when at boiling point turn it onto the beaten yolks of two eggs. Stir until blended and thickened, then turn over the toast, being sure it covers each slice in the dish. Cover and serve at once. Orange marmalade is good with this toast.

We Float off the Broken "Crippled" Beans

ONLY perfect, whole beans of the finest high-altitude coffees are used in the blending of SWANSDOWN. This insures a rich, full-bodied coffee—aromatic and smooth—and always uniform in quality.

When the cover of a berry splits open too soon or the shell of a bean is broken, the flavor alters greatly. Failure to float off these "cripples" compromises the flavor of an entire roast.

SWANSDOWN, made from full-bodied beans only, is always uniformly smooth, rich and delicious. A meal is only as good as its coffee.

Your grocer handles SWANSDOWN. (16)

A SOAP SO GOOD... it lathers generously even in cold water

ALL SOAPS are not alike. And it's easy to tell the difference. Try them in COLD WATER. Octagon Toilet Soap is so readily soluble that it works up a quick, cleansing lather even when the water is cold. Watch this eager lather grow. It goes down deep, cleans each tiny pore, conquers grime and dirt . . yet each little bubble is a caress to your skin. Octagon will do all this in cold water—in hard water. And doesn't it stand to reason that a soap so good in cold water will be even better in warm? And Octagon is better.

It is rich in cocoanut oil, which assures a generous lather in any kind of water, and a cleansing lather that is beneficial to the tenderest skin. You can easily prove it yourself. The long-lasting, delicately scented, glistening white cake of Octagon is only 10c. And there is a coupon on the wrapper of each cake that you can exchange for valuable premiums. Coupons from Fab . . Colgate's washbowl flakes for fine fabrics . . may be combined with Octagon Soap Product coupons to secure any of these premiums.

Three children are named as heirs of George W. Black, Walnut street, Wilkinsburg, whose will, disposing of a $56,000 estate, was filed for probate today. They are Martha G. Black, Elizabeth Black Kelly and John G. Black.

The will of Alfred B. Harlow, of Alden & Harlow, architects, filed for probate today, leaves the income from an estate of $235,000 to his wife, Elizabeth A. Harlow, for her lifetime, when one-half passes on to a son, Alfred G. Harlow, and one-half to a daughter, Katharine Harlow Johnson. The Harlows live in Sewickley.

DRY VIOLATORS FINED

Fines ranging from $25 to $500 were imposed on defendants in the United States District Court who yesterday entered pleas to complaints and indictments charging violations of the national prohibition law. The fines imposed were as follows: Joseph Jennings, $500; Phillip Christina, $400; Robert Juskowith, $300; George J. Simon, $250; Mrs. Pearl Feehorn, $150; Jack Barrett and Jacob Ehrenreich, $100 each; William Nick, $50; Adam Dason, Mrs. Elizabeth Pariak, Dan Butler and Jesse Hutchinson, $25 each.

THUG ATTACKS WOMAN

While battling with a thug who waylaid her in Allegheny avenue, late last night, Mrs. Pearl Bassatti, 30, of 1012 Ridge avenue, probably was saved from being seriously hurt by the appearance of a taxicab.

Without warning or a demand for money, her assailant pounced upon her, according to Mrs. Bassatti. She was struck once on the head, her knees were injured as she was knocked to the pavement and she suffered deep scratch on the arm.

ADMITS RING THEFT, IS SENT TO HUNTINGDON

After being dishonorably discharged from the Navy two years ago and released from the workhouse two months ago for theft, John Mertz, 20, who lived with a cousin on Mifflin street, yesterday admitted stealing a diamond ring worth $350 from the home of John Miller, 1627 Chislett street, November 14. He entered a plea of guilty to entering a building before Judge James R. Macfarlane in Criminal Court and was committed to Huntingdon.

MARY F. FEENAN SUMMONED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Fitzsimmons Feenan, 70, widow of James Feenan, died at the family home, 3305 Fifth avenue, late yesterday. She was born in County Down, Ireland, but came to Pittsburgh as a child. She had resided in the Fourth Ward for more than 40 years. Mrs. Feenan is survived by three sons, William F., James V. and John H.; two daughters, Miss Mary J. and Miss Margaret A.; seven grandchildren and one niece, all of Pittsburgh. She was a member of St. Agnes Church and of the altar society of the church.

MRS. DORA G. LEWIS DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Dora Goldenson Lewis, 86, widow of Leon Lewis, died suddenly Thursday night at the home of her son, Abe Lewis, 5714 Woodmont street. Mrs. Lewis had lived in Pittsburgh for more than 50 years. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Goldie Grondine; two sons, Abe Lewis, of Pittsburgh, and Philip Lewis, of Cleveland; 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

ACT WOULD GIVE GOVERNMENT AID TO AGED

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—A bill providing for Federal aid to states making provision for old age relief, to be known as the "United States Old Age Security Act," was introduced by Representative William I. Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, yesterday.

The purpose of the bill is to assist the states in caring for aged citizens in need of relief by giving them a monthly grant of money which will enable them to continue living at home instead of going to an almshouse or other institution for the indigent poor.

Under the terms of the bill, the Federal government would pay about one-third of the grant to each individual thus aided, a sum which would not exceed $30 per month in any case.

Relief would be confined to persons of 70 years or over, not possessing property valued in excess of $3,000, and who had no other means of support.

Where Is Coolidge, Pa., and Alma Bustle?

Where is Coolidge, Pa.?

Nobody seems to know. The first intimation that the town existed was furnished yesterday by President Coolidge himself when he appointed one Alma Bustle postmistress there.

But neither the White House nor the White House Research Bureau knew where Coolidge, Pa., hung its hat. And nobody in Pittsburgh is any wiser.

Today the Pittsburgh postoffice was all of a twitter. A postcard addressed to Alma Bustle reached that station and the mail clerks knew not whether to dispatch it east, west, south or north. It was understood that the card was more or less a congratulatory message to Miss Bustle upon her appointment as postmistress of a town that is more or less lost.

Postmaster George W. Gosser confessed that he had never heard of the place and that the official Postal Guide had failed to list the town.

When the Pennsylvania Railroad was asked the fare to Coolidge, it was revealed that it didn't cost a nickel, to say nought of a dime, because the Pennsylvania Railroad hadn't been able to install a station there. It hadn't even been able to find it.

The telegraph companies refused to accept telegrams to Coolidge, Pa., The Town That Nobody Knows, and the express companies announced, in an indirect way, that all Christmas gifts to Coolidge might be delayed a day or two after Christmas. Even the United States Tire Company was in ignorance as to its location.

It lookes like a mystery for the police.

NAB SUB-CHASER AND LIQUOR

By Universal Service.

ELIZABETHPORT, N. J., Dec. 9.—The former submarine chaser 217 with $500,000 worth of liquor aboard, collided with a Danish lumber schooner yesterday and was captured by the coast guard.

The boat had been chased for 10 miles by the coast guard and nine shots had been fired at it before the collision.

SHOPLIFTER GETS 60 TO 120 DAYS

Followed three or four times a week for several months in a department store, James Schultz, 28, of Braddock, was arrested November 23, after stealing some scarfs upon his return to the store an hour after he had stolen some gloves, store and city detectives testified in Criminal Court yesterday. He stole in another downtown store in April, detectives testified. Judge James R. Macfarlane committed Schultz to the workhouse for 60 to 120 days.

Atlantic Gasoline now changed to meet cold-weather starting and driving conditions

IF YOU ran your home without heat in cold weather, there'd be a marked change in the kinds of food on your table. Why expect your motor to face the rigors of winter on a summer diet?

Each year, with the approach of cold weather, Atlantic Gasoline is thoughtfully adjusted to winter conditions. It is specially refined to take the halt and wheeze and stutter out of cold-weather starting. It laughs at the thermometer and challenges icy blasts to do their worst.

Atlantic winter gasoline is founded on the same remarkable combination of choice petroleum elements that made last summer's Atlantic so marvelous in performance. But, since winter has less of summer's evaporation influence, a higher degree of volatility is permissible. It makes Atlantic agile as a cat. Yet for practically every hill, load, speed or driving condition, Atlantic always has more power than you need.

All Atlantic Gasoline in every Atlantic pump or service station is the winter type. No need to hesitate or to ask the dealer if he has it. He has.

DEATH OF PITTSBURGH YOUTH HELD ACCIDENT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—A coroner's jury yesterday found that Charles Frederick Hetrick, aged 74, son of Willard Hetrick of Pittsburgh, was killed under "accidental circumstances" in an automobile accident November 11, near Taylorstown. The boy's father was driving an automobile which crashed into a bridge abutment on a dangerous curve. The jury recommended that the curve be properly posted to warn strangers of conditions.

BANKER KILLS TWO SONS, THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

FEAR BOY LOSING MIND THOUGHT MOTIVE

By Universal Service.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 9.—Francis E. Stevens, 51, vice president of the First Trust and Savings Bank of Pasadena, today fatally shot his two sons and then killed himself. The sons, George, 16, and Francis E., Jr., 20, died shortly after the shooting.

George Stevens was shot by his father in an automobile outside the Las Encinas Sanitarium in Lamanda Park. The father then entered the sanitarium, where the older son, Francis, was a patient.

Attendants, hearing two shots, hurried out to the tennis court. There they found the father dead and Francis in a dying condition.

According to friends, Stevens' concern over the condition of his son, Francis, is believed to have been responsible for the triple tragedy. The father, they conjectured, became mentally unbalanced through fear his son would be a mental case for life.

Stevens apparently had planned his acts carefully. At the sanitarium office he left sealed letters for business associates and a will disposing of his estate and life insurance valued at $181,000.

Stevens, one of the best-known bankers in this district, came here from Columbus, Ind., 20 years ago.

How To Relieve Cough or Cold In 2 Minutes

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as Aspironal, a liquid cold remedy, medicated with the latest scientific remedies that are used and endorsed by the highest medical authorities.

Every druggist is authorized by the manufacturer to refund your money while you wait at the counter if you cannot feel relief coming in two minutes. Relief means: clears the head; relieves the congestion in the nose and throat; checks the excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, achy feeling that attends a cold.

Quickest and best relief for catarrhal croup and children's "choking-up" with phlegm at night. Price 30c and $1.00. Get relief or get your money back.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing . . . When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

HARRY TRUESDALE

Injected into the Remus trial as a surprise defense witness, Harry Truesdale told the court Mrs. Imogene Remus had promised him $10,000 if he would kill her husband, one-time Ohio rum king. Remus is now on trial at Cincinnati, charged with murder of his wife. Truesdale said Mrs. Remus gave him $250 "expense money" and told him she and Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., ex-dry agent, each would give him $5,000. Remus accuses Dodge of stealing his wife's love after sending him to Atlanta penitentiary for bootlegging.

U. S. BUYS LAND NEAR WARREN

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 9.—Announcement was made today by Federal Forest Supervisor L. L. Bishop, located here, that several hundred acres in Warren, Forest and McKean counties have been added to the Allegheny National Forest. This purchase includes the Frank Morrison and Thomas Kirvin estates between Corydon and Bradford.

The total approved at Washington is 6,141 acres, including lands in the National Forest of New Hampshire, although most of it is located hereabouts. Bishop also announced that 40,000 additional acres in this section are being examined for prospective purchase. Approval is expected during the winter.

FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN DEATH OF WOMAN

William White, 34, Negro, of 2104 Charles street, was acquitted of involuntary manslaughter yesterday in Criminal Court in a verdict directed by Judge James B. Drew because of insufficient evidence. He was accused in connection with the death of Elizabeth Crowley, 21, Negress, of 1541 Gironde street, thrown from White's automobile the night of October 9, when the car, filled with friends returning from a party in West View, skidded on West View avenue near the Keating car barn and struck a pole.

WILL DEDICATE BRIDGE AT AMBRIDGE DEC. 28

HUNTER, GONE DAY, FOUND DEAD

RIDGWAY, Pa., Dec. 9.—After having been missed from his home at Cuneo, about six miles from Ridgway, for 24 hours, the body of Richard Anderson was found at noon yesterday with a bullet wound in the head. The body was found in the dense woods. From the evidence at hand it seems as if Anderson had tripped and in falling his gun was discharged, as there was an empty shell in his gun. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson and was aged about 34.

When he did not return last night it was thought that he had joined another party. Later in the evening his people became alarmed and sent out a searching party. About 10 men combed the woods until today when they found the remains.

GIRL SCOUTS COURT TO BE HELD TONIGHT

The fall court of awards for the Girl Scouts of the East End district will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the East End Christian Church. A Christmas program will begin with a procession of scouts carrying national and troop flags. A trefoil, official Girl Scout emblem, will be illuminated before them, and Scout laws and promise will be repeated. Members of Troop 10 will present a Christmas play, "A Pot of Red Geraniums," and each troop will present a pot of geraniums for the Children's Hospital. Second class badges and merit badges will be awarded as gifts from a Christmas tree.

DENY FORD WILL BUY PLATE GLASS PLANT

KITTANNING, Pa., Dec. 9.—Officials of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company have unqualifiedly denied the rumor prevalent in Kittanning and Ford City for several days that Henry Ford was negotiating for, or had actually purchased, the Ford City plant of the glass company. The report bobs up every now and then, this time being more persistent than ever.

EDGEWOOD STUDENTS TO PRESENT OPERETTA

Edgewood High School will present the operetta "College Days" in the school auditorium next Thursday and Friday nights. The play is to help pay for a new piano for the auditorium. The principal parts are played by Jane Hiles, Jane Morgan, Jean Smalley, William McCloskey, Vincent Smith, Miles Kinley, David Dudgeon and Alan Randall.

LINDY WILL TRY MEXICAN HOP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The spanning of the 2,000 miles between the capitals of the United States and Mexico will be the next international mission undertaken by America's ambassador of good will, Charles A. Lindbergh.

A telegraphic invitation from President Calles of Mexico to make the flight reached the trans-Atlantic flier here yesterday, and he has accepted. Although his plans are not complete, Lindbergh said that he would not necessarily attempt a non-stop flight.

"I have not studied the project," he added, "and the route depends on flying conditions. Whether or not any stops will be made en route also must be decided later."

HIS JOB HARDEST: HAS NOTHING TO DO

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—E. Dudley, coast guard, who claims he sleeps with windows open and nothing over him but a sheet and spread, believes he has the coldest job in Chicago. He patrols the beat along the municipal pier, ready to rescue any bathing beauty who might need help while floating in the lake. It's the coldest job and the hardest, Dudley says, for there is nothing for him to do.

Come Where You See the Selections

Come where you find variety. It is easier to select from thousands of different articles than from only a dozen or two. Our two downtown stores and also our McKeesport store carry selections to meet all tastes.

CREDIT? Why Certainly!

We are doing the diamond, watch, jewelry and silverware business of Pittsburgh and McKeesport because we give the values. Not only the values, but terms most anybody can afford. We don't haggle and fuss when a customer wants an extra accommodation to make his money reach far enough to remember all his friends. We work with him. Do the things he wants us to do.

Be Sure To See Our Christmas Window Display!

See It At Either Of Our Two Downtown Pittsburgh Stores or at Our McKeesport Store.

Bear in mind that the exhibits in our windows keep changing. Even with all these changes we are able to show only a very small fraction of the wonderful variety on display in the store.

THE Dae Gordon Club, winner of the A. A. U. championship last winter, will open its 1927-1928 season tonight when it engages the Holy Cross passers on the Center Avenue Y. M. C. A. floor.

With the return of Lou Broverman and the addition of Abe Felser, former A. P. Moore star, and Ben Malamude, one-time flash at Fifth Avenue High School, the Cardens this year present a lineup that compares favorably with the best in amateur basketball circles.

Other members of the Gordon squad are Levin, captain; Wilder, Mandell, Cohen, D. Rosenberg and B. Rosenberg. Home games will be played every Tuesday night on the spacious Taylor Allderdice High School floor with the S. H. Adlers furnishing the preliminary attraction.

DRIBBLES

The Moon Klinzing Juniors are open for games with teams in their class. Call Lafayette 0211 and ask for Bill.

Broadway Little Five would like to arrange games with the Bloomfield Scholastics, Brookline Cubs and other clubs in this class. Call Lehigh 1420-W and ask for Bucky.

St. Richards plays the McKeesport Juniors and the Mieles engage the M. L. Succops in the only games scheduled tonight in the P. & O. League.

The Commercial-Industrial League members have shown enough class in their early games to convince followers of the loop that it ranks with the best in the county.

The M. G. Leslies have been deprived of their franchise in the Central League for using an ineligible player, McKeesport Y. M. C. A. being granted the vacancy.

SPEED SKATE CHAMP WILL LEAVE SPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Paul Foreman, national sprint skating champion, announced his retirement yesterday to devote his time exclusively to business. Foreman won the national title at Saranac Lake, N. Y., last year.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 9.—Charley Gorman, world's amateur skating champion and holder of records at 220 and 440 yards, will make his residence in Detroit, with a view toward taking out American citizenship papers, Gorman declared that Canadian fans did not support his competition.

CAGE LOOP SPLIT ON FOUL RULING

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The American Basketball League is divided on retention of the five personal foul rule, President Joe Carr revealed yesterday. A telegraphic referendum on the question of modifying the rule found both Eastern and Western clubs voting two and two for and against any change.

Under the present rule a player contracting five personal fouls in one game is automatically barred from further participation in that contest.

HAINES IS HONORED

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Hinkey Haines, star quarterback of the New York football Giants, today was the proud possessor of a handsomely engraved platinum watch, presented to him at a banquet given by 200 industrial leaders and sporting celebrities last night in honor of the former Penn State star. Haines' father, who is the mayor of Red Lion, Pa., was present.

Guy Bush Signs "Iron-Clad" Contract

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Guy Bush, star pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, was married last night to Miss Frances Richardson of Boston, in the chambers of Judge Francis Borelli, amid a baseball atmosphere. The judge was a pitcher on the University of Michigan baseball team in 1901 and 1902, and E. M. Libonati, one of the witnesses to the marriage, played in the outfield for the University of Chicago in 1912-13-14. In addition the local members of the Baseball Writers' Association were present.

"The Long Count"

By JACK DEMPSEY

make flying tackles at the sprinting Tunney. I had grown a little bit tired and saw no reason to wear myself out making wild lunges at a man who was doing a cycling act.

Tunney kept circling around. I kept after him, tried to corner him and, occasionally, threw some punches at him. But Tunney kept running. Occasionally I got in close. When I did, the clever Tunney clinched and hung onto me like a long lost brother.

And so Tunney either ran himself out of danger or Barry broke him away from danger and the champion survived the seventh.

When we went out for the eighth round, I felt still confident that I had Tunney thoroughly whipped and that I would give him even more of a beating in that round. But Tunney, a cautious fighter, used his legs to splendid advantage and then something that might be called luck or interference of Barry assisted him materially.

As we were about to go out of one of the eighth round clinches, Tunney clipped me on the chin and put me on the floor. The punch didn't hurt me, but it gave Tuney plenty of confidence. He came into me and each time he did I thought I had him all set for some infighting where I could do a lot of damage.

TIRED LATE IN BOUT

Tunney, in his statements concerning the fight, gives himself nine out of the 10 rounds. A liberal fellow—this Gene. I really think he's a bit too much so. For I figure that I won the eighth round, just as I feel I won the third, sixth and seventh. The worst I thought I ought to have had in the first was an even break. I'll give Tunney the second, fourth and fifth. That made the count 4 to 3 in my favor—as I regard it—as the ninth round began.

When the ninth started, my legs began to slow down a bit, and when they didn't respond quickly and solidly to the call I made on them—well, I lost a little confidence. For legs are vital and when they start to buckle under a fellow, just as he's going into the last two rounds of a close fight it's no happy feeling.

I guess Tunney realized that the last two rounds would decide the result, and that he sensed that my legs were shaky. Anyway, he came tearing into me in the ninth. He nailed me with plenty of punches and I hit him some in return, but he had the advantage over me in that round.

The story of the tenth and final round is a simple story, of Tunney tearing in and of my trying to land a haymaker—and of Tunney winning that round. I'll concede that Tunney outpointed me by grabbing the ninth and tenth rounds, thus saving him from defeat and perpetuating him as champion.

KECK

and Maloney himself has flivvered badly since.

Business has been bad recently for Delaney, so Jack and Paul are getting together to do their personal act all over again tonight. The Chicago promoter, Jim Mullen, is hoping Delaney wins, for he has visions of drawing a large "gate" with Bright Eyes against Gene Tunney in the battle the heavyweight champion has promised to fight for him next summer.

FROM the efficient publicity department of Westminster College of New Wilmington, Pa., comes a good story of the wisdom of Jack Hulme of New Castle, trainer and coach of the athletic teams of the United Presbyterians. It appears that, like the ancient Greeks, Hulme is a firm believer in the theory that the only teaching worth while is that which makes for a sound mind in a sound body. A check has been kept on some of the sayings of the rubdown philosopher and they would make an excellent textbook on sportsmanship and fair play, without which attributes Hulme claims there can be no good athletes.

"The grandstand is a heartless institution," is one of Hulme's favorite observations. Other proverbs of the sport sage which have reference to the spectators are: "Players are best on the home court." "Popularity gained in victory is short-lived." "All fandom loves a winner" and "It takes rules to make the game."

SPEAKING of the various types of athletes, Jack says: "Champions are a great nuisance." "An unconditioned athlete is a sad spectacle." "The star has genius—and luck." "The grandstand player is an eyesore." "The boastful player is a pest." "The over-cautious player is a coward." "The under-cautious player is foolhardy" and "A star must shine."

Advice to athletes includes: "Keep late hours—and warm the bench." "Always be willing to learn." "Don't ask or give quarter." "If there were no stupid players, there would be no stars." "Keep in your own lane." "Strategy matches strength." "Listen not to kind words from your opponent; he seeks to defeat you." "Confidence wins; conceit bows to defeat" and "To foul is to admit inferiority."

TEAM play, one thing which Jack preaches continually, is aptly brought out by a number of adages, among which these are the best examples: "Play together—teamwork wins." "Each player on the team receives the kick-off" and "A team is no stronger than its weakest player."

Little cynicisms include: "He is an all-wise coach who has no team." "It's easy to shake hands with a defeated opponent." "The game played in the bath is always the best" and "Medals make a poor repast."

AMATEURS TO PLAY FOR SILVER TROPHY

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—A huge silver bowl will be placed in competition for amateur 18.1 balkline billiard stars in a championship tournament opening here January 3. Francis S. Appleby, present titleholder, has donated the trophy.

The tournament, to be held on six successive nights, is expected to bring together about half a dozen outstanding players, including the champion, his brother, Edgar P. Appleby, a former titleholder; Herbert Hamman of Newark, N. J., and John A. Clinton of Pittsburgh, holder of the national amateur 18.2 title.

Matches will be played on a 200-point basis, the championship to be decided on a best percentage basis after the round robin series.

ADLER NAMED CAPTAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—William J. Adler, newly-elected captain of the Columbia football team, is the third New Yorker within the last four seasons to be chosen for the Blue and White captaincy. Adler is a guard.

Minors' Parley Ends

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 9.—(U.P.)—Baseball moguls of the 25 leagues which met at the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues' annual meeting here, were en route home today secure in the belief they had benefited the "national pastime."

The meeting yesterday paved the way for adoption of the universal draft plan at the major-minor meeting in New York next week, by voting 15 to 5 to order the American Association, International, Pacific Coast, Western and Three-Eye Leagues to discontinue the modified draft at once. The five leagues had refused to accept the agreement whereby players could be sent to their circuits subject to draft.

Under the universal plan players with Class "A" league teams would not be eligible until they have been with the league three years; Class "B" teams, two years, and the others one year.

Toronto was selected for the 1928 convention.

The national board of arbitration remained in session to prepare decisions in more than 200 cases.

A sale of any good make of men's clothes at similar savings would be incentive enough for most men, but when they can buy Society Brand Suits—the acknowledged Style Peers of America—for so little, it is an opportunity too obvious to need elaboration. The appreciable saving will permit men a greater latitude in buying gifts of other merchandise, yet put clothes on their backs they will be proud to wear Christmas Day and any time. Hundreds were specially purchased for this event—hundreds more are from our regular Winter stocks that bore price tags from $45.00 to $60.00.

Included are the exclusive models which have made the name Society Brand celebrated throughout the land. The Dunlin, the Poole, the Wellington and the Cornell—models for the collegiate, for the business and professional man, for the older man of leisure. Complete size ranges.

Included are the exclusive fabrics loomed by best mills here and abroad—fabrics which have enriched Society Brand's reputation and added thousands of wearers in recent seasons. Plentiful selection in Bristol stripes, Haddons and Piping Rocks in the oxfords, blues and more fanciful colorings which are prevalent this Winter.

Equally Remarkable!
1 and 2-Trouser Suits
Just Purchased, Radically Low
$26.50

This one group is a fit subject for a tremendous sale in itself. Bought from the largest maker in Rochester. Every suit a new Winter style, in fine woolen and worsted fabrics. Not a suit in the lot is worth less than $35.00 by today's standards. Sizes and models for regulars, shorts, stouts and tall men.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

THIRTY-SEVEN — FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1927

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

EVIDENTLY the baseball fans of the National League circuit are not going to see Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker in action in the senior loop, after all.

At least, the veteran American League stars will not be seen in Giant uniforms, and as no other club in the Heydler girdle has manifested any desire to add the fading Ty and Tris to their payrolls, that appears to end the matter.

IT is a question whether the pair of one-time topliners would be of any great service anyhow. Cobb will be 41 years old one week from tomorrow, and Speaker will reach the 40 mark next April 4. Players, as a rule, do not have much more baseball left in them at that age.

Cobb and Speaker might serve as drawing cards in the older league for a time, but the novelty soon would wear off. Only winning players can hold the favor of the fans for very long.

THOUGH Manager McGraw of the Giants is trying to make it appear that the decision not to sign Cobb or Speaker is his own, it must have been President Stoneham who vetoed the proposition. Otherwise, McGraw convicts himself of having done a little romancing recently.

It will be recalled that only a few days ago McGraw expressed quite an interest in Cobb and Speaker, the former in particular, as Giant prospects for 1928. He was quoted as saying that he intended to take the matter up with President Stoneham as soon as possible and the announcement that the Giants would give up Sarasota, Fla., next spring and train in Augusta, Ga., Cobb's home town, was taken as an indication that Tyrus was to become a member of the Gotham National League outfit.

BUT note the change of front on McGraw's part. He now intimates that the signing of Cobb or Speaker by the Giants is altogether unlikely, and adds:

"To begin with," said McGraw, "we are not even in a position to negotiate for Speaker's services as he has not been released by the Senators. But even should he become a free agent there are three very serious questions to be considered before the Giants would close with either Cobb or Speaker. First, would they still be the big drawing cards after being let out by the American League? Second, would their playing ability, considering their years, strengthen us? Third, would they be worth to us the amount of money we would have to pay them? Personally, I don't think we could afford to do it."

ANOTHER letter comes to the Sun-Telegraph in support of the suggestion that the "most valuable player" award is the bunk and ought to be abolished, in view of the fact that such a star as Pie Traynor received only 18 votes.

A local fan who desires to appear in print as "Fair Play" writes:

Must compliment you on what you said about the most valuable player award. If it were put to a vote of the fans, they would say the same thing—that it's a bunch of hokum—and from the way they have been picking them I think

"The LONG COUNT" by Jack Dempsey

CHAPTER V

A QUESTION fired at me often since the Chicago fight is this: "Why didn't you tear into Tunney after he got off the floor in the seventh?"

Here is the rather delayed answer:

When Tunney climbed off that floor, I felt supremely certain that the championship of the world was coming back to the Dempsey family.

Never before in any important fight of my career did a man get off the floor and go on to take victory from me. I figured that Tunney would be no exception; felt that I had plenty of time left to finish him and that he couldn't recover before I could nail him again. It was confidence—and worse. It was over-confidence, the fatal thing in any endeavors of life.

Instead of rushing Tunney and throwing everything I had into a wild effort to finish him in that round, I felt there was no use taking foolish chances and that he'd never recover from that smashing.

Tunney got off the floor and started to ride his bicycle. I might then have dashed after him in headlong fashion. But why do it? For I felt I certainly could reach him and drop him again without running him a footrace first of all. And, beyond all that, I thought, at the time, that my scoring of the knockdown had put me out far in front on points and that from then on, it would be my fight even though I didn't knock him out.

BARRY SAVED TUNNEY

So it struck me as foolhardy to

NEW PLAN FAVORED BY CAGE QUINTS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Michigan's twinteam football innovation, under which one eleven will play at home next fall while the other meets opponents on foreign gridirons, is being considered unofficially at Yale. Advocates of the plan point out that a reserve team could play other teams in nearby states. The plan also would be in accord with Yale's policy of "athletics for all students," it is argued.

CAGERS FAVOR SYSTEM

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The two-team football agitation in the Western Conference has developed the question of whether the ruling applies also to basketball, and the court mentors seem keener for the two-team idea than the gridiron coaches. A vote is now being taken among the athletic directors to see whether the two-team rule shall apply to all sports.

Meanwhile, the double-header idea in football has received a belated addition to its adherents in Amos Alonzo Stagg, the dean of Big Ten coaches, at the University of Chicago. Stagg already has booked Lake Forest College for a preliminary game October 8, to be played before the Chicago-Wyoming contest, and is looking for another team to match with his reserves September 29, the day of the South Carolina meeting.

Stagg is frankly skeptical of the two-team plan except on a first and second team basis, and only then for the first two Saturdays of the schedule.

TWO QUINTS AT OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Ohio State University will put into effect the two-team football plan next fall, according to an announcement of the athletic board.

Ohio State's second team will meet the second team of the University of Illinois here No. 24, the date on which the first teams meet at Champaign, Ill.

Since E. Z. Wainwright, president of the league, is one of the contestants, and Charley Ellis, secretary, and Chris Dimling, treasurer, both have players in the league, it was deemed advisable to appoint a disinterested party to settle all questions of play.

THROUGH the SPORTLENS by HAVEY BOYLE

THERE is a peculiar paradox in the history of Young Griffo (Albert Griffith), boxer of another day, who died recently. The paradox is that the cleverest man in the ring from all accounts wound up unable to tell a hawk from a handsaw, meaning he was "touched," and yet judging from the story of his cleverness as told by older men, Griffo could stand on a handkerchief and make an adversary miss, meaning he did not need footwork to protect himself. Thus the man who was rated the cleverest boxer of his day, ironically enough, is bitten by the same squirrel that has bitten other old-timers who were noted in their halcyon days as boys who could take it.

HAVEY BOYLE.

In his last years, the once hopeful and once celebrated boy who came from another side of the world to these states to make fame and fortune, was of the flotsam and jetsam of the street called Broadway. Nightly, in inadequate garments that invited cold winds, Griffo with purple fingers passed out newspapers to a small trade. Fame in his youth he won, but fortune slipped through his fingers. A mind that one time divined a left hook before it had started from an opponent latterly came under the peculiar dominance of the moon.

HE belongs to that romantic period of boxing, celebrated by older gentlemen, who still revel in the visions and the outlook of their youth. Griffo's death will be the cue for another sighing for the good old days. They were good old days, too, no doubt, but no better than the present. The present is just as interesting to the young ones as was the past to the old boys when they

NOTES of the BOXERS

RUDY CEDER boxes Canastota Bob at Erie tonight. Tug Phillips meets Joe Martin of Cleveland in the semi-final.

Pete Zivic engages Ward Sparks, of Detroit in one of the 10-round bouts of an all-star card at the Detroit Olympia Arena tonight. Benny Bass and Johnny Farr box the windup and Archie Bell meets Billy Shaw and Sammy Dorfman and Eddie Anderson clash in other 10-rounders. Luis Carpentero, the Filipino, and Joey Ross meet in the opening bout of six rounds.

The complete preliminary card for the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney show in the Coliseum, Chicago, tonight, follows: Homer Robertson vs. Osk Till, 10 rounds; Charley Belanger vs. Mike Mandell, six rounds; Young Jack Dillies vs. Frankie Murphy, six rounds; Billy Showers vs. Billy Light, six rounds, and Gene McCue vs. Chester Bush, four rounds.

Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, boxes Myer Grace at Indianapolis tonight. His title will not be at stake, the match being made over the class limit of 147 pounds.

Eddie O'Dowd and Jacinto Valdez, the Filipino, mix at Columbus tonight.

The card of bouts at Motor Square Garden next Monday night should provide more evenly contested battles than has been the case for some time in that arena. The boxers appear to be well matched from the Jack Zivic-Willie Harmon main bout down to the Jimmy Belmont-Johnny Vivio opening event. Young Rudy and Teddy Welch are scheduled for another of their young wars in the eight-round semi-final and U. S. Carpentier meets Johnny Michaels of Jamestown, N. Y., in the second bout.

Soldier Jones, the Canadian heavyweight, is to be fed to George Godfrey at Motor Square Garden Christmas afternoon instead of to Paulino Uzcudun New Year's afternoon, and Battling Levinsky will be matched with Paulino for the latter show, it was said today. Red Chapman and Tommy Crowley will be the headliners in the East End arena a week from Monday.

Joey Novak, Lawrenceville lightweight, boxes Johnny Blair of Utica, N. Y., in the 10-round main bout at Meadville next Wednesday night.

LOCAL BOY REWARDED

Walter Erwin Schuette of Sewickley, Pa., received the varsity football award from Lafayette College for being the student manager of the team during the past season. The award is in the form of a certificate and a maroon sweater bearing the white major sport "L".

Tex Rickard Buys Grave for Griffo

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Funeral arrangements were completed yesterday for the burial of Albert Griffiths, the ghost-like Young Griffo of prize rings three decades ago.

The one-time phantom featherweight, who died suddenly Wednesday, will be buried Sunday afternoon in Woodlawn Cemetery here in a grave bought by Tex Rickard, fight promoter. Other funeral expenses will be paid for by Mrs. James F. Fish, a writer. Celebrities of the sport and theatrical world, who greeted him daily in the nook Griffo frequented on Broadway, will attend the funeral. Griffo died almost penniless.

SCHENLEY GIRLS WIN

The Schenley High junior girls' cage team defeated the Taylor Allderdice Juniors, 36 to 30, in a fast game at the Schenley High gym last night.

VETERANS TO FORCE GOLDEN CATS

By JESS CARVER.

TRIPPING playfully about the Stadium gridiron yesterday afternoon, their long white beards tucked inside their jerseys to keep them from becoming entangled with frost-bitten feet, the University of Pittsburgh Alumni eleven, the varsity players of other years, staged a brisk and fruitful workout in preparation for the contest with this year's varsity tomorrow afternoon.

The "long white beard angle" is a figurative one, of course, meant to represent the soreness, stiffness and general let-down that comes with two or three years of inaction.

The starting lineup tomorrow for the "aluminum" will likely be as follows: Ends, Williams and Gwosden; tackles, Chase and Wissinger; guards, Hangartner and Linn; center, Bowser; backs, Davies, Hewitt, Hastings and Nick Colona.

In addition to this eleven, there will be Lloyd Jordan, Tuffy McMillen, Red Seidelson, Jack Sack, Red Byers, Tommy Holleran, Jakie Bohren, Jim Rooney, Chuck Detwiler, Lee Frank, Andy Gustafson, Buck Templeton and possibly Doc Fearlman and Jake Stahl, all of whom will be able to give the boys a tough afternoon.

PANTHER ALUMNI IN DRILL FOR BATTLE WITH VARSITY

BR-RR!

The penetrating cold of yesterday failed to prevent the Pitt alumni football stars from staging their first workout in the stadium for the practice game with the varsity tomorrow afternoon. The tilt is designed to help the varsity keep in condition for the Tournament of Roses game with Pop Warner's Leland Stanford University eleven at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's afternoon. Above are two of the Pitt stars of other days, Pie Williams (left), assistant director of athletics at Pitt, and Charley Bowser, assistant varsity coach. Bowser also is coach of the alumni team. Note the gloves and funny little caps the rugged ath-a-letes are wearing.

ONE OF THE OLD GUARDS

That is, he's a guard and he's on the Oldtimers' team. Meet up with Hangartner, a former Panther regular, who was one of the "Eskimos" on the job yesterday.

FULLBACK OF THE VETS

Nick Colonna comes back to wear cleated shoes for the Panthers again. He'll do the fullbacking job for the alumni tomorrow.

CUTBILL REINSTATED

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Harold C. Cutbill, erstwhile "flying parson" of Boston and former world's record holder for the 1,000-yard run, has been restored to good standing in the national A. A. U. and is now eligible to register with the New England A. A. U. and compete in all open meets sanctioned by the national body.

MURCHISON'S CONDITION TAKES TURN FOR BETTER

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Loren Murchison, ruler of the indoor sprints for nearly a decade, hovered between life and death at St. Mary's Hospital today with his condition taking a slight turn for the better. He is suffering from influenza and complications, so grave that his father, Rod Murchison, was summoned from St. Louis yesterday.

Starting in 1918, when Murchison represented the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in A. A. U. competition, there were few who could take his measure on indoor tracks at distances up to 300 yards, because of the exceptional speed of his starts. He has not raced since he completed a world tour with Charlie Paddock after the 1924 Olympiad.

MRS. EMMET FRENCH PINEHURST FINALIST

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Mrs. W. L. Pierce of Charlotte, Carolina women's champion, and Mrs. Emmet French, Youngstown, O., battle today on the Pinehurst links for the annual Carolina women's title.

Mrs. Pierce advanced to the final match by eliminating Mrs. John D. Champman, Greenwich, Conn., medalist and defending champion, 2 up and 1 to play. Mrs. French defeated Miss Carolyn Jamison, Greensburg, Pa., 3 and 1.

OAKLAND ON BUCS' SPRING TRAINING CARD

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Officials of the Oakland Baseball Club announced today that the Oaks would play practice games next spring with Pittsburgh and Denver and Wichita of the Western League.

Schenley Elects Loder

THE election of Gilbert Loder, star member of this year's Schenley High eleven, to captain the 1928 Schenley team was the feature of the annual football banquet held in the First Baptist Church dining room last night.

The banquet, at which members of the grid squad were honor guests, was well attended, there being fully 400 students and guests present. Loder was carried into the room after his election in a huge football, which was opened before the gaze of the diners.

Capt. Gibby Welch, Pitt's all-America halfback; Jimmy Hagan, Gibby's running mate; Howard Harpster, Tech quarterback; Coach Gross and Harvey Avery, former Schenley grid star, gave addresses.

Oscar (Ossie) Adams, former Red and Black captain, was toastmaster.

TIERNEY AND LUDERUS SIGN FOR NEW JOBS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9.—Cotton Tierney, former second baseman of the Pirates and Phillies and then with Kansas City of the American Association and Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, has signed a contract to play with the Rochester Internationals next season.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 9.—Fred Luderus, manager of the Oklahoma City Club of the Western League last season, will manage the Omaha club in 1928. Luderus, formerly with the Phillies, will be a playing manager, holding down the first base position.

SPEAKING of SPORTS by HARRY KECK SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

JACK ZIVIC recently lost to Young Saylor in the Motor Square ring and then went to Erie and knocked out Bucky Lawless.

Meanwhile, Harmon was losing the decision in a bout with Lawless and then came here and stopped Saylor.

Proving what?

The answer will come Monday night in the Motor Square ring, when Zivic and Harmon hook up in the 10-round main bout, their third meeting. They first fought each other in 1925, when Zivic won the decision in 12 rounds, and then battled to a 10-round draw last year. They simply couldn't let the fast-fading year of 1927 roll by without their annual tussle, it seems.

JACK DELANEY and Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champions, battle in their fourth meeting in the Coliseum, Chicago, tonight. The bout brings back memories of their first clash, in Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1924. Berlenbach, just out of the amateur ranks, had gone along knocking out everybody he faced and was the reigning ring sensation. He finally reached a point where the boxing commission insisted that he meet an opponent of proved ability, and Delaney was named to give him a real test. The sharpshooter delivered in great fashion, not only halting the knockout winning streak of Oom Paul, but knocking out Paul in four rounds.

Their second meeting was in a 15-round bout which featured the opening of the new Madison Square Garden a few winters ago. Again Delaney dumped Paul in the fourth round, but this time Berlenbach got up at the count of nine and finished the fight and got a disputed decision. He was the light-heavyweight champion at the time. The third bout was staged summer before last at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, and Delaney easily boxed his way to victory and the championship, which he later resigned to enter the heavyweight eliminations. He was beaten by Jimmy Maloney and sidetracked.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 9.—(U.P.)—Coach Knute Rockne announced 30 players of the 1927 Notre Dame football team would be given their letters.

UNITED ENGINEERING, ZOLLER ISSUES LISTED HERE

Irregular Changes In Local Stocks

The new common stock of the United Engineering and Foundry Company was admitted to the official list of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange this morning and trading in the issue began with the start of business. First sales were at 53, off slightly from the close on the curb last night. There are 416,118 shares of the new stock (no par value), which was given in exchange for the old $100 par common shares when the financial structure of the company was reorganized recently.

The securities committee of the exchange also approved the application of the William Zoeller Company for listing of its capital consisting of 12,000 shares common stock of no par value, 8,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par value and $800,000 of first mortgage, 6 per cent, sinking fund gold bonds.

The list was rather quiet during the first half of the session with prices showing an upward tendency in a few stocks. May Drug was strong and there was a good demand for Consolidated Ice preferred with only a small volume of either issue available at the current quotations.

First National Bank shares continued to reflect the scarcity evident for some time with sales today at figures representing an advance of 20 points over the last posted prices. Opening sale on First National was one share at $355 followed by a sale of seven shares at the same figure.

In the last hour there was a short spurt in Lone Star Gas to above 56, as compared with the opening sale at 53. Traders were without information to explain the rise and rumors were quickly circulated that another "deal" was on. Previous rumors that the company's properties were to be sold to Standard Oil of New York or Columbia Gas and Electric were denied by the president of the company last week, coincident with the announcement that directors had proposed an increase in capital from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Rest in peace, Griffo, for yours was a hard old fate. To never belong is bad enough; but to belong once and then to slip into the forgotten and neglected discard is sad, indeed.

Fortunate, perhaps, was the fact that Griffo, bereft latterly of a cogent brain, missed baneful introspection—unless it was such introspection which unseated his reason. Death does not destroy Griffo, but rather reinstates him.

those fellows that do the selecting better attend a few ball games and wise up.

"NOT taking any credit from any of the players that won it, for they are not to blame, but to my way of thinking it takes more than one player to win ball games, and these supposed-to-be know-it-alls leave players like Pie Traynor, Kremer, Hill, old Joe Harris, and members of other teams, out in the cold. Well, I think they pick mostly from what they read, not see, for if they ever saw a ball game with Pie playing they could not pass him up as they do.

"Hoping this won't be too much bother to you, and wish you would continue the good work to stop that bunk of the 'most valuable player.'"

MANAGER DONIE BUSH of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club will arrive tomorrow morning from his home in Indianapolis to be present at the testimonial dinner to be given in honor of President Barney Dreyfuss and himself in the Amen Corner suite of the William Penn Hotel tomorrow evening.

Horizontal Mergers Now Big Features; One Romance.

By B. C. FORBES

ONE man whose career has interested some of New York's shrewdest bankers is Philip D. Wagoner. Perhaps you never heard of him. You probably will in the future.

He took hold of a run-down, hard-up company nine years ago when its shares, which had never paid a dividend, were selling at $8. Today the same shares, allowing for a 10 per cent stock dividend, have a market worth of $60. Last year earnings on the shares which had sold at $8 each were 66 per cent.

Brains, not luck, have been responsible.

NOW there is happening something which illustrates perhaps the most significant trend in modern American industry and business. That is the gravitation of companies in the same or allied line of business into the control and management of some conspicuously successful organization.

Next week Mr. Wagoner's company, Elliott-Fisher, and the Underwood Typewriter Company will hand together under the name of the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company and under the presidency of Mr. Wagoner, with the veteran John T. Underwood as chairman of the board.

A year ago Mr. Wagoner reached out and took over the Sundstrand Adding Machine Corporation and the consolidation will result in the largest typewriter and typewriting accounting machine enterprise in the world.

AMONG bankers who spotted young Wagoner as a comer were Albert H. Wiggin, head of the Chase National Bank; Charles Hayden of Hayden, Stone & Company, and Reeve Schley, all of New York. Some executives become recognized as money-makers. Wagoner is one. He had such faith in himself and the wobbly company he took hold of that ever since he has bought every share that has come within his reach.

Meanwhile, the stockholders have done very well, thank you. Elliott-Fisher had less than $50,000 in cash when he took the helm. After purchasing the prosperous Sundstrand Corporation, wholly from cash in the treasury, the $50,000 has multiplied into well over $2,000,000. Heavy accumulated back dividends have been paid off, and last year $10 a share was paid on the common stock which had been increased by a 40 per cent stock dividend. Employes have increased from a handful to over 2,000.

That's the kind of a fellow forward-looking financiers like to tie up to.

THE whole office suppliance industry, now a very important one, has been experiencing consolidations. James H. Rand, Jr., who, although only 40, has had a most spectacular career, has recently corralled into one gigantic company these concerns: Remington Typewriter, Kardex, Library Bureau, Safe-Cabinet, Dalton, Powers, Baker-Vawter, Kalamazoo and Line-a-Time, the whole consolidation becoming known as the Remington-Rand Company.

Thus have two giants come into existence. By doing away with much duplication of manufacturing, of selling and of overhead they should be able to serve better all who use office appliances.

C. U. WILLIAMS, president of his own Oil-O-Matic Heating Corporation of Bloomington, Ill., observed to me the other day:

"Mergers of the past mostly have been vertical ones, for the control of materials and manufacturing processes. Next year will be featured by horizontal mergers, to cut administration and sales overhead. The Ralston Purina Company of St. Louis added to their breakfast foods other cereal concerns and a cracker business. The Postum Company of Battle Creek purchases a cake flour business, an old chocolate company, a syrup concern. This is done to spread directorial and selling cost over a great number of items.

"I look for marked reduction in the number of manufacturers of oil burners. A man who makes only oil burners naturally must charge up all his overhead against them. For three years we have been perfecting an ice machine, so that, without going outside of our own factory, we have effected a horizontal merger which will enable us to spread our costs thinner."

FATE apparently has decreed for American business men: "Lead—or succumb."

Mitchell Optimistic.

President Charles E. Mitchell of the National City Bank, New York, predicts a big year in 1928 with the credit situation sound and the return of Ford and other leading manufacturers to normal. Mr. Mitchell says 1928 will be a year of record-breaking volume in many lines, that there exists a lack of depression and just finished and says expansion of bank credit has been rather under than over that in previous normal times. Mr. Mitchell declares the possibilities of the gold export movement should cause no concern.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Fresh selling pressure on the corn market, both from holders and from speculative sources, landed early today to pull down all grain. It was pointed out that notwithstanding corn supplies are apparently 60,000,000 bushels less than last year, present corn prices are much higher. Starting unchanged to ¼c off, corn today underwent a material setback. Wheat opened at ¼c decline to ¼c advance and then averaged lower. Oats followed corn. Provisions likewise sagged.

Corn traders seemed to be a good deal influenced today by the fact that despite indications of larger available total supplies of corn this season than last year, values continue to surpass the quotations current at the corresponding time in 1926. In this connection, it was asserted by some authorities that under such circumstances anything bullish in the corn situation had been more than discounted.

Increasing arrivals of corn at leading primary centers counted further as a bearish influence. Yesterday's official arrivals at the main terminals totaled 612 carloads as against 415 cars a week previous and 362 cars a year back. Kansas City, Chicago and Omaha were conspicuous for liberal receipts, Kansas City in particular showing 245 cars against 21 cars on the corresponding date a year ago.

Your Will—
A Compass for the Seas of Tomorrow

THE biggest Christmas gift you can make to those you love is to have an up-to-date, legally drawn will safely stowed in your Safe Deposit Box before Christmas morning.

¶ Every man or woman, regardless of the amount of their wealth, should make a will, naming a competent executor, such as the Peoples Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

¶ It is a document of love and economy. A properly drawn will, with us as your executor, will relieve your loved ones of the worry and care incident to the management of your estate, enabling them to enjoy the fruits of your labor without the responsibilities you have carried in its creation.

¶ What solace it should be, to think, as you join your family in their Christmas revels this year, that you have definitely established, through your will, a thoughtful program, under expert direction, for their continued happiness in the years to come, when you may not be here.

¶ Christmas time, when you are searching for ways to show your love, is an ideal occasion to interpret it in a major way by a comprehensive safety program for your family's to-morrow.

¶ Our Trust Officers will be glad to discuss your particular problems in confidence and without obligation.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL
FOR MEN IN BEAVER VALLEY TOWNS.
I am interested in securing about 20 young men of good character, who can furnish good references. Should be between ages of 25 and 35 and preferably married. If you have the above qualifications I shall train you 2 full days in our salesroom, teaching you our methods of selling our products. If you need immediate money I can advance you a reasonable amount after this training, provided you are accepted. You will then be placed in the field with experienced men and with an assured income.
At the present time our company maintains 26 offices in the country, doing the same thing for our organization.
Program for the year is to establish offices all over the country.
We are at the present time successfully operating throughout 45 countries of the world, therefore claim the largest, wealthiest company of its kind in the world today. We shall be able to place a successful applicant in real executive position in as short a time as possible.
The above is an honest advertisement, for good, reputable men, and I am prepared to back it up.
Even though you may be employed at a satisfactory salary, I have the courage to have you give it up for a real selling position with a future.
SEE MR. SWAN,
9-5 OR EVENINGS 6-8.

THOMAS E. FINLEY, Attorney-at-Law, Berger Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.
IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. IN RE PETITION FOR SALE OF REAL ESTATE OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF INDUSTRY, NO. 2648, JANUARY TERM, 1928.
Notice is hereby given that the petition of William E. Franklin, P. S. Kohler and H. W. Kilgore, respectfully represents: That they are the committee duly appointed by Redstone Presbytery, a corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to take charge and make sale of the real estate of the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, Elizabeth Township, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. See minutes of the Presbytery hereto attached, made part hereof and marked Exhibit "A." That there are no trustees or other officers of said First Presbyterian Church of Industry and said organization has become inactive and extinct by reason of there being no resident or active trustees representing it, and all the members of said congregation having gone away or having been dismissed to other churches, and there being no one to make title to said real estate to a purchaser thereof, and for the past seven years said church building has ceased to be used for church purposes, and the same is being wasted and destroyed and less valuable every year. Said church property consists of a lot or piece of ground situate in Elizabeth Township, Allegheny County, Pa., fronting 50.55 feet on a Public road in the village of Industry and extending back sixty-five feet to property of William B. Miller and wife, and having thereon erected a frame church building. See blueprint marked Exhibit "B." The First Presbyterian Church was organized in 1862, and acquired title to lot 45x65 feet by deed from William B. Miller and wife, dated April 28, 1862, and recorded June 4, 1894, in Deed Book, volume 874, page 502. Title being taken in the name "Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, Elizabeth Township, Allegheny County, Pa." A frame church building was erected upon said lot by said congregation, assisted financially by the Board of Church Erection of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, which holds a mortgage of Nine Hundred ($900.00) Dollars against the same, recorded in Mortgage Book, volume 486, page 316. Church services were held in said church from the time of its completion until 1920; the services being conducted by the pastor of the Belleville Presbyterian Church, a neighboring church in the Presbytery of Redstone. In 1920 the congregation had gradually disappeared through removals and dismissals to other churches until only two active members remained, viz: The Misses Frances L. Howell and Martha J. Howell. In 1923 the matter was called to the attention of Redstone Presbytery, it having jurisdiction over the First Presbyterian Church of Industry, and at a meeting of said Presbytery held at Mt. Pleasant, April 9, 1923, your committee was duly appointed. See copy of minutes hereto annexed, made part hereof and marked Exhibit "A." In pursuance of said appointment, your committee took charge of said property, and granted letters of dismissal to the Misses Howell to unite with the Mount Vernon Presbyterian Church, and to three other members residing at Santa Paula, California. Said committee entered into an agreement to sell said church property to the "Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1068, I. O. O. F., of Industry," for the price or sum of Sixteen Hundred ($1,600.00) Dollars, a copy of said agreement is hereto attached, made a part hereof and marked Exhibit "C." That said sum is a fair, marketable price for the same, and a higher and a better price than could be obtained at a public sale, and the sale may be made without injury, or prejudice to any trust, charity or purpose for which the same is held and without violation of any law which might confer any immunity or exemption from sale or alienation. In pursuance of said sale agreement, a survey was made by R. C. Bayne, a civil engineer, who found the N. W. corner of said church building extending over the line and into the property of William B. Miller and wife, as shown by the blue print marked Exhibit "B." This necessitated the purchase of a triangular piece of ground in order to satisfy the purchaser, and by deed dated July 11, 1927, and to be recorded, the said William B. Miller, et ux., granted and conveyed said triangular piece to the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery.
All of the foregoing recited actions of your committee have been taken under the authority of Redstone Presbytery, the superior judicatory with which the aforesaid First Presbyterian Church was affiliated, and the proper authority for that purpose, as provided for under the Act of Assembly, approved May 17, 1921, P. L. 861. Your petitioners therefore showing to your Honorable Court that Redstone Presbytery is the proper authority to dispose of said real estate, it having the power under its Charter (inter alia) "to receive and take or gift, grant, devise or otherwise howsoever, and to hold real estate and personal property of any and every kind to an amount not exceeding that limited by law; and to sell, transfer and convey the same, by its proper officers; to use and apply its funds from time to time as the said Presbytery shall direct, to erect and maintain houses of worship and such other buildings, as in the judgment of Presbytery shall be necessary for carrying on its work; no real estate shall be conveyed or encumbered, unless by resolution of said Presbytery regularly passed, authorizing the Trustees and officers so to do." Such resolution was passed at Belle Vernon, Pa., September 22, 1924. See minutes of Pres. Vol. 15, page 487, and Exhibit "A" of this petition. And your petitioners further showing that neither congregation nor Trustees of said First Presbyterian Church of Industry are in existence, and that the organization has become inactive and extinct, and the property liable to be wasted and destroyed, pray your Honorable Court to appoint the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery, to make, execute and deliver unto the Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1068, I. O. O. F., of Industry, a good and sufficient deed for the real estate shown in blue print marked Exhibit "B" and they will ever pray.
WILLIAM E. FRANKLIN,
PHAON S. KOHLER,
HARRY M. KILGORE.
ORDER OF COURT.
And now, to-wit: December 7th, 1927, the within petition presented in open court and upon consideration thereof it appearing to the Court that the facts set forth in said petition are true and correct, on motion of Thomas E. Finley, attorney for petitioners, a rule is granted to show cause why said First Presbyterian Church property should not be sold to the Pride of the Valley Lodge No. 1068, I. O. O. F., of Industry, Pennsylvania, by the Trustees of Redstone Presbytery, as prayed for. Said rule returnable to and bearing fixed for the 19th day of January, 1928, at 9:30 a. m. Notice to be published once a week for four successive weeks in Pittsburgh Legal Journal and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

THE fact that Bobby Jones was presented with a $50,000 mansion by his friends seems to have aroused considerable talk in America and England.

That ain't all. He is also going to get a million-dollar garage for the cups he won in England.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Accepting a house does not make you a professional unless a golf links is attached to the back door.

Many a golfer has been given a house. By a jury.

He has had to share this house with other golfers who went nuts when they sliced a grapefruit with an umbrella handle.

Golf is the most maddening game in the world. One day you are bad and the next day is Tuesday.

Nor do we believe the Massachusetts slur that Southern golfers hang up such good scores because the caddies down there cannot read or write.

ON "WHY MEN PAY"

SOME women NEVER talk SERIOUSLY
About ANYTHING, except—AMUSEMENTS,
This OFTEN makes them EXCEEDINGLY charming—
To MEN. For AFTER ALL, what PRETTY girl can SERIOUSLY think of amusing HERSELF, Or of having a GOOD TIME without A MAN somewhere NEAR?
THEREFORE, though they Campaign to PLEASE THEMSELVES,
These girls OFTEN give OTHERS a lot of Pleasure on the SIDE;
(For which they are ALWAYS Recompensed.)
For men, ESPECIALLY tired BUSINESS MEN, love to Be AMUSED,
And when the lips of A PRETTY GIRL ask for NOTHING
But PLEASURE,
MANY will GLADLY pay—Through the NOSE.

Gorgeous Georges at Work

EASY Work, You Might Say, But He Deserves It

GEORGES CARPENTIER WITH ANNA LUDMILLA, HIS DANCING PARTNER FROM THE CHICAGO CIVIC OPERA.

Happy he, who, after life's stormy day, finds a haven of safety and comfort.

Georges Carpentier, the able French boxer, above, seems to have found the haven.

This shows him practicing his "dancing act" with the well-known Anna Ludmilla, once Premiere danseuse of the Chicago Civic Opera.

Georges Carpentier's lines have apparently fallen in pleasant places. Miss Ludmilla, whom he must look at for an hour or two every evening, seems "easy to look at." And as for the dancing, that is only footwork. And footwork was Carpentier's specialty, helping him through many a fight.

As dancer or as boxer, this young man is not to be sneered at. One more punch and he would have been champion in place of Dempsey. He had Dempsey "going" and going rapidly. But he didn't have the other punch, Dempsey had time to clear his shaken brain, and Dempsey instead of Carpentier came out winner.

Very popular with the public, as he deserves to be, Carpentier is highly paid. Nobody grudges him his good fortune.

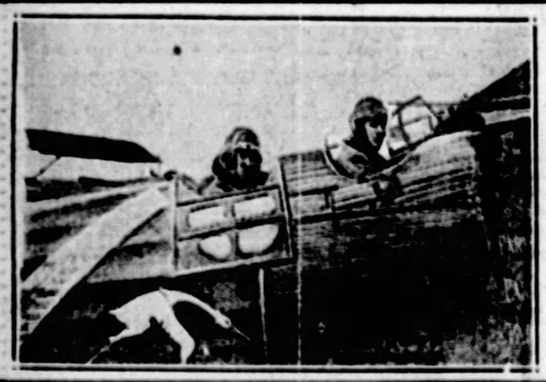
When the men were fighting in the trenches, Carpentier was also fighting in the trenches. He was in the army through the whole war, not hiding under the bed or teaching soldiers to box in the safe seclusion of some war camp, like some of our prize ring "heroes."

This man fought well in the great war. He distinguished himself marvelously, taking on men far above him in weight in the less admirable war of the prize ring.

Now he is taking life easily and making money easily. Good luck to him.

The Thing to Be Done Is Done

Distance, Danger, Death Can't Stop Man's Will



TWO FRENCH FLIERS.

This is the airship Nungesser-Coli, named for the two plucky French war fighters that died in the attempt to cross the Atlantic. Their ship went down, and they went with it. But that does not frighten other Frenchmen or keep them from taking up flying where Nungesser and Coli left off.

Lieut. Le Brix and Capt. Costes flew from Paris to South America. One stage of their flight, a hop of 2,000 miles across the Atlantic, was made in 21 hours and 15 minutes.

Thus the thing to be done IS done. Lindbergh proved the quality of our young Americans when he made his marvelous flight all alone, in a tiny machine, 3,600 miles in a little more than 36 hours. That rate of speed, thirty-six hundred miles in thirty-six hours, means that a machine could fly around the world in 10 days.

Flying across the Atlantic has ALREADY been accomplished, in the first few years of flying. What will fliers of the future do, when flying machines are built as long as ocean liners, with engines of 10,000 horsepower?

The whole world will fly as soon as it is ready.

A non-stop flight across the Atlantic will be followed by non-stop flights across the Pacific Ocean. May this country be prepared for trouble, in case any of these flights should suddenly become hostile and be aimed in our direction.

Democratic Rum War

No, That Dog Will Sleep.

Louis Seibold says the Eighteenth Amendment disturbs the great Democratic party, Democratic leaders fearing "that a violent rum war will disrupt the party."

They fear with accuracy. The South is for prohibition, so are women generally. But Mr. Seibold will probably find that when the 1928 election starts, no candidate of any importance will admit that he has the most remote idea of disturbing the Volstead law. They will all let that sleeping dog lie and sleep.

Trying to Make Both Ends Meet

Cancer—Greatest Scourge

By DR. FRANK CRANE

CANCER is the greatest scourge of our day.

At the American Public Health Association the other day it was stated that one person in five of the men and women now living in the United States between the ages of 45 and 65 will die of cancer and that one in ten of all ages will so die.

Cancer is a mysterious disease and is baffling to the medical profession. It is not incurable if it is taken in its earlier stages.

It is not necessarily fatal any more than is a wound from a splinter.

The experts in health, while they may not be able to cure the disease in its advanced stages, have made much progress in preventing the disease.

The public should be informed. They should be careful to watch for the danger signals and consult a physician.

Any lump, especially in the breast, or any irregular bleeding or discharge or loss of weight or indigestion should be promptly attended to.

It should be recognized that the services of the medical practitioner should be made use of quite as much for prevention as for cure of disease. Some 200,000 people are reported to have died from cancer in a year and this number is probably not 50 per cent of the total. As many die from the trouble whose deaths are ascribed to some other cause.

It is not contagious or infectious, nor is it due to a specific parasite. It is not proved that it is connected in any way with immorality, and there is no sense in the secrecy that often is maintained about it. No food or article of clothing, as far as we know, causes it. It is a disease peculiar to old age.

It emphasizes the fact that we should all take pains to be examined regularly once a year or so.

It is not well to be thinking of one's health all the time, as such morbid thoughts cause disease. But it is well to be examined carefully and see that we are all right, and then forget it.

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Rounding the Horn

WITH prow held steady to the Arctic Pole
The Earth-ship doubles now Old Hyems' Cape,
Where Capricorn defies the Archer's bow,
And on the Austral Crown the pale sun glints.

Now the bare spars sing to the stinging gale,
Which, hurled by tow'ring Ophiuchus from the North,
Makes Serpens cower in his starry coils,
And the curved Scorpion shiver 'neath its scales.

On th'whitened deck the crystal flakes reflect
Blue Vega's flare and Altair's diamond blaze,
Redoubled still with myriad atom fires,
Whilst high aloft the Cross flames at the peak.

And, like an oriflamme of wintry war,
The nitent Galaxy sweeps heaven's cope!
What time the Northern Star smiles to the Pole
The unfailing promise of a sure return.

For Earth's stout axis is her trusty helm,
Which, holding e'er the Cynosure in view,
Compels the cycle of the Seasons' round,
And, each recurring year, brings back the sun.

Tales That Are Told

Not Her Job

WIFE: "I've just been reading an article on electricity, and it seems that before long we shall be able to get nearly everything we want by just touching a button."

Husband: "You'll never be able to get anything that way."

"Why not?"

"Because nothing on earth would make you touch a button. Look at my shirt!"

Then She Knew

AUNTIE AGATHA had called on the Smythes to announce the fact that she had recently become engaged.

Noticing young Nigel Smythe staring at her in a fixed kind of way, she asked the boy why he was so interested.

"I'm waiting to hear you click, auntie," was the astounding answer.

"Click?" echoed his aunt. "What ever are you talking about, Nigel?"

"Well," continued her nephew, "when daddie heard that you were going to get married he said: 'Ye gods, the old girl's clicked at last!'"

Not Usual

HUMMING to himself, the guest at a certain hotel collected his luggage from the hall-porter and clambered into a waiting taxi. Shortly afterwards the manager said to the porter:

"You gave that man in Room 141 his bill, didn't you, Alphonse?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"I didn't forget to charge for anything, did I?" was the next question.

"Not that I know of."

"Strange," murmured the manager—"very strange. I can still hear him humming."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Not Always "Luck"

WHY should you place so much importance on your opinions?

Have you accomplished anything out of the ordinary?

You often criticize your superiors where you are employed.

You will not admit that their success is due to any extent to their ability.

You persist that a chain of circumstances or so-called luck, not special merit, placed them ahead of you.

To a certain, slight degree, this may be so.

But a true basis of success indicated they have what you haven't.

They have ability to keep the vantage ground, luck or no luck.

If your opinions were worth what you think of them you would be a greater success, would you not?

If you can't wrest success from circumstances, something is wrong.

Your opinions don't count if you can't put them over.

So long as you stick to opinions which are not supported by results, you will not meet with success.

Try changing your opinion, once in a while, to gain the top.

Don't change dishonestly but seek more knowledge.

Old Ways

SO MUCH of beauty lies in those old ways,
When down the vista of past time I look
To years a-brim with glad and golden days.
Enchantments lay on every field and brook,
And gayer tiden were all the birds and flowers;
A promise dawned with every morning's light
And something sacred touched the tranquil hours
Of dusk that heralded the star-strewn night.
Faith's torch was bright, and ever as it gleamed
It lit new wonders for our eager feet;
Content to wait, through endless days we dreamed
Of joys to be, and found all dreaming sweet.
There is no land in all this world we know
Can match the loveliness of those old ways;
Is it that Earth was fairer long ago,
Or was it but the bloom of youth's glad days?

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

I READ in a paper.
WHERE A doctor says.
IF YOU WANT your children.
TO HAVE good health.
AND GROW up strong.
YOU MUST refrain.
FROM SCOLDING them.
OR DISTURBING them.
AT BREAKFAST time.
OR LUNCHEON time.
OR DINNER TIME.
AND NEVER before.
HAD I known this.
AND HAVING read it.
IT OCCURRED to me.
THAT OFTENTIMES.
OUR DINNER hour.
HAD BEEN one of scolding.
FROM SOUP to pie.
AND I determined.
THAT FROM then on.
THE DOCTOR'S words.
SHOULD BE my guide.
AND AT dinner time.
ON THAT first day.
OF MY reform.
WE ALL sat down.
AND I never heard.
A LITTLE BOY.
MAKE SO much noise.
WITH A bowl of soup.
AS OUR boy did.
BUT HEEDING the doctor.
I SAID no word.
AND THEN when the soup.
HAD PASSED away.
THE BOY said something.
THAT WAS intended.
TO RILE his sister.
AND SO it did.
AND SHE came back.
WITH A nasty one.
THAT MADE him sore.
AND I said "Tush!"
OR MAYBE: "Tush, Tush!"
AND THEY finished their fight.
AND ALL was peaceful.
FOR A little while.
AND THEN the girl.
SPOKE ABOUT an actor.
SHE'D SEEN in a picture.
AND THOUGHT was good.
AND THE boy spoke up.
AND SAID she was crazy.
AND THE actor was awful.
AND THAT was the start.
OF ANOTHER fight.
AND ANYWAY.
I HELD my peace.
FOR THAT one meal.
AND WHAT I want.
IS TO have the doctor.
WRITE SOMETHING FOR children.
AND PLEASE to tell them.
ABOUT THEIR parents.
AND IF they disturb them.
AT DINNER time.
MAYBE THEY'LL die.
OR GO away.
AND NEVER come back.
I THANK you.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Thoughts while strolling: Stanford White's son—also an architect. Yellow-wheeled Victorias. A girl flips away a cigaret—and enters a religious book shop. Earl Benham, the movie actor, who became a fashionable tailor. Irene Hayes, the florist.

Those tired commuter mothers dragging children. Alfred A. Knopf, the publisher. The vacant stares of the thumb-twiddlers in club lounges. The new hotels, so white and chaste. Stark, stripped trees in Central Park. And fleecy clouds idling by.

The continuous murmur of the Plaza fountain. And the chirp of crowds going to tea. A smiling blind boy taps along. The row of yawning cab-men with their spring-halted nags. Florist boys rush along with flowers for the evening. Ted Lewis, a Circleville, O., boy who made good in the city.

A lunch wagon called "The Eylsian Palace." Smelling of fried onions. A dog shop run by Chinese. The Eighth avenue board-walk. Hobo anarchists and Salvation singers. The first faint flush of Broadway's jazzy glare. Whatever became of pawpaws? That's a fruit.

The home-going jumble. Girls rouging as they skip along. Smirked at by those middle-aged curb loafers. Who resemble fat white grubs. Thousands grabbing newspapers—and scuttling down subways. Dark Chinese restaurants flash their outside electric glitter.

The green glow of quick photo shops. Nut stores. Song sheet hutches—with pale piano pounders. Window machines grinding out countless cigarets. The flashily-dressed men with beady eyes who stand in front of cheap lunches. And bite off their words.

Night workers digging frantically for hidden pipes. The groups of chorus men who stand aloofly in shadows. Sardi's—the restaurant where patrons are caricatured. A cholocate colored actress in a huge leopard skin coat hops out of a green limousine. C. P. Grenoker, the Shuberts Major Domo.

Five old-timers are clicking in a hit musical show—Elizabeth Murray, Josephine Sabel, Barney Fagan, Jim Thornton and Sam Morton. Miss Sabel was the original coon-shouter who entertained us in vaudeville 25 years ago. Miss Murray, too, sang rag time syncopation. Barney Fagan was a soft shoe dancer and a matinee idol. Jim Thornton and his wife Bonnie were vaudeville headliners, and Sam Morton was the jovial comedian of the Four Mortons. The applause that greets them nightly shows they have not been forgotten. Indeed all in mature years can give many younger favorites points in entertaining.

Ruminating over old favorites one wonders what has become of Flo Adler, McWatters and Tyson, Maggie Cline, Clark and Bergman and The Fying Martins.

At the Palace recently I saw Collins and Hart, who have delighted thousands upon thousands with their burlesque strong man act. They have been doing the same turn with slight variation for 25 years I can remember. And despite the fact they closed the show they held most of the audience. They are a breath of old vaudeville—with green suits, red whiskers and chalked noses—that turns back the clock for many of us ripening for the other cone.

Somehow I long for that vaudeville act with the tropical setting. The curtain arises with birds chirping in the trees—and suddenly from a limb drops a green spangled and knotted hulk. He unwinds himself and behold Limbo—the Frog Man. He bends backward and winks at you through his legs, and toddles about the stage in twisted contortions, hangs by his toes from perilous heights and performs other shuddery stunts while the orchestra plays "Hearts and Flowers."

* * *

And why are there no more of those heart-breaking vaudeville skits that left us dripping like wet umbrellas? We old-timers never thought we had seen a vaudeville show unless we had a good boo-hoo out loud.

Prettier? Of Course

THERE'S nothing especially remarkable about the conclusion of the British doctor who says "the average English woman of today is more beautiful than the Englishwoman of 20 years ago."

Except in Turkey and other eastern countries where women have just shaken off the shackles, femininity pretty much the world over has been growing steadily better looking for the last two or three decades.

What's done it? Freedom, mostly, which let women think for themselves instead of accepting their thoughts ready-made from the masterful male. They wanted, first-off, to be healthy and handsome and work and play like their brothers. So they have, and do—with the consequent improvement in face and form and carriage, to say nothing of mind, as anybody who can remember back a few years has observed often for himself.
